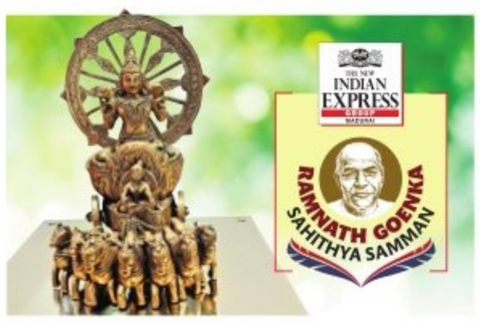
SECOND EDITION OF THE RNG SAHITHYA SAMMAN TODAY



PARAMITA GHOSH @ New Delhi

IDEALLY, works of literature should never have to compete, but what would literary prizes be without such competition? The second edition of the prestigious Ramnath Goenka Sahithya Samman instituted by The New Indian Express group will on Friday unveil the names of winners across three categories from among some of India's most exciting voices in fiction and non-fiction. At the ceremony to be held at Bharat Mandapam in Delhi, a citation, a trophy, and a cash prize will be awarded to each of the three winners.

The selection process kicked off in July with a long list of prospective winners based on suggestions and submissions from senior editors from each of TNIE's 30-plus centres across the country — in Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Karnataka, Telangana, Andhra Pradesh and Odisha, and The Morning Standard and Sunday Standard in Delhi — as well as from publishers. The list was finally whittled down to a shortlist by an internal jury.

In the non-fiction category, four books were in the fray — The Day I Became A Runner by Sohini Chattopadhyay, The Yellow Sparrow by Santa Khurai, H-Pop: The Secretive World of Hindutva Pop Stars by Kunal Purohit, and Neerja Chowdhury's How Prime Ministers Decide. The fiction section had three contenders — Acts of God by Kanan Gill, The Scent of Fallen Stars by Aishwarya Jha and Western Lane by Chetna Maroo.

Decisions on these two segments apart, the jury had also the task of zeroing in on one among a shortlist of literary luminaries for a Lifetime Achievement Award, the top honour instituted in the name of the group's iconic founder Ramnath Goenka by TNIE Chairman and Managing Director Manoj Kumar Sonthalia.

Chaired by Pavan K Varma, former Ambassador and author, the external jury consisted of former foreign secretary and writer Vikas Swarup and the popular writer on history Manu S Pillai. They were joined by an internal jury comprising Editor Santwana Bhattacharya and Consulting Editor Ravi Shankar for extensive deliberations. The non-fiction prize, in particular, was most keenly contested and led to a nail-biting finish.

Await the names to be unveiled at the award ceremony today!

AFSPA back in 6 areas of Manipur

Situation continues to be volatile with intermittent firing in parts of the troubled state, says Centre

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

WITH the situation in Manipur continuing to be grim, the Union Ministry of Home Affairs on Thursday re-imposed the tough Armed Forces Special Powers Act (AFSPA) in six police station areas in the Imphal valley after declaring them as disturbed areas.

The announcement came on a day when there was no trace of six Meiteis — three women and three children — missing after Monday's gunfight in Jiribam district that left 10 'militants' dead.

The police said search operations were continuing even as political parties joined various organisations in demanding the release of the six captives.

Till now, most of Manipur was in the disturbed areas category except for 19 police stations in the Meitei-dominated Imphal valley.

The geography of the disturbed areas has now been extended to the jurisdictions of Sekmai and Lamsang police stations in Imphal West, Lamlai in Imphal East, Moirang in Bishnupur, Leimakhong in Kangpokpi, and Jiribam police station in five districts. The imposition of AFPSA is warranted to carry out well-coordinated operations to maintain the security situation and contain the activities of insurgent groups there, the ministry said in its notification.

The ministry said Manipur continues to be volatile with intermittent firing in violence prone areas in the fringe areas of Bishnupur-Churachandpur, Imphal East-Kangpokpi-Imphal West and Jiribam districts. There was active participation of insurgent groups in heinous acts of violence.

AFSPA empowers officers of the armed forces to "fire upon or otherwise use force, even to the causing of death" after giving due warning against "any person who is acting in contravention of any law or order for the time being in force in the disturbed area" if they are of the opinion that it is necessary to maintain public order.

The law protects officers from prosecution. "No prosecution, suit or other legal proceeding shall be instituted, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government, against any person in respect of anything done or purported to be done in exercise of the powers conferred by this Act."

SIT to further probe D'Cunha report on K'taka Covid scam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN a major political development, the Congress government on Thursday indicated its reported plan to prosecute BJP leaders former chief minister BS Yediyurappa and former health minister B Sriramulu for their involvement in the alleged Covid scam in 2020.

The cabinet resolved to set up a police Special Investigation Team (SIT) with three officers headed by an IGP to further probe the alleged scam based on Justice John Michael D'Cunha Commission's report on the alleged misappropriation of funds during the pandemic, which mainly included import of 3 lakh PPE kits at inflated prices from China.

SIT to probe six iron ore smuggling cases

The Siddaramaiah cabinet on Thursday decided to hand over six cases of smuggling of iron ore to a Special Investigation Team (SIT), with the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) refusing to probe them. P4

Recently, a leaked report of the commission reportedly recommended prosecution of Yediyurappa and Sriramulu. But in their reply, Yediyurappa and Sriramulu stated that they are ready to face any consequences, claiming that they did not commit any mistakes, but had saved many lives during the pandemic.

The government appointed the commission to probe the alleged corruption during the pandemic. A cabinet sub-committee headed by DCM DK Shivakumar examined the commission's report and presented its views before the cabinet. P4

House panel not to summon Buch for its next meeting

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE Public Accounts Committee (PAC) of Parliament, headed by senior Congress leader K C Venugopal, has decided not to summon Sebi chairperson Madhabi Puri Buch for its next meeting on November 19. Buch, who is in the eye of a storm over allegations of conflict of interest raised by US-based short-seller Hindenburg, was asked to appear before the House panel on October 24, but she skipped the meeting at the last hour citing personal reasons.

The meeting was postponed after officials informed the PAC about Buch's inability to attend the meet. Venugopal later said the Sebi chairperson had sought exemption but he denied the request. Although her no-show could be considered as contempt of the Parliamentary panel, Venugopal said the committee took a lenient view on grounds of her being a lady.

According to the schedule published on Lok Sabha website, the PAC has decided to call representatives of the Ministry of Coal on the financial scam involving Dewan Housing Finance Corporation for its next meeting on Tuesday. It has no mention of summoning Buch and Sebi officials, though it was widely expected.

Venugopal's move to call Buch last time had sparked a political row after BJP members accused him of taking unilateral decisions.

Liquor shops in K'taka to shut on Nov 20

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN protest against the alleged corruption in the excise department, the Federation of Wine Merchants' Associations of Karnataka on Thursday announced that there will be no sale of liquor across the state on November 20. "The government is not listening to our demands. We have decided to remain closed on November 20. This will lead to a loss of around Rs 120 crore to the state exchequer," said general secretary of the federation B Govindaraja Hegde.

Hegde told reporters here that all categories of liquor shops will remain closed on November 20. This is to protest against the alleged corruption in the excise department. Members of the federation will stage a demonstration at Freedom Park. "Liquor sellers are being harassed by excise officials for bribes. The sale of illicit liquor in the state has increased. To address the issues within the excise department and fulfil our demands, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah should convene a meeting of excise and police officers," Hegde said.

Hegde said that none of the federation members wrote to the governor regarding corruption in the excise department. "The letter was written by an RTI activist. The federation did not mention the alleged Rs 700-crore corruption in the department, which was referred to by Prime Minister Narendra Modi during an election rally in Maharashtra recently. This claim is not true," he said.

Hegde told TNIE that the federation has three major demands -- the government should issue directives to the excise department to stop its interference and unnecessary suspension of licenses, retail liquor sales should yield at least 20% profit, and alcohol consumption should be permitted on CL-2 licensed (retail shops) premises. KAPPATAGUDDA NOW HOME TO 18 MAMMALS

Among the 18 species here, 16 are protected under Schedule I of the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972, highlighting the importance of the Kappatagudda. Spread across 244.15 sq km in Gadag district with 17,872 ha of hills, the team surveyed 138 sq km in Gadag, Mundargi and Shirahatti taluks

The SACON study

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @ Kappatgudda (Gadag)

A study by Coimbatore-based Salim Ali Centre for Ornithology and Natural History (SACON) has revealed the existence of rich fauna in Kappatagudda, where some firms are now keen on getting mining leases.

According to the study, Kappatagudda Wildlife Sanctuary is now home to 18 mammals, including wolves, hyenas and antelopes. This sanctuary, which witnessed notifications and denotifications for mining, has now been left undisturbed by the state government due to local people's movement.

A jungle cat spotted in Kappatagudda

The study 'Denotified and notified protected area: Kappatagudda Wildlife Sanctuary and its importance for conservation of mammals in the Deccan Plateau of Karnataka: India' by Santanu Mahato, Honnavalli N Kumara and S Babu, SACON, Wildlife Institute of India (WII), South India Centre, and others have found rare dryland mammals and endangered birds here. The study stated that the habitat is lost due to diversion of land without assessing its biodiversity and its impact. The team, which studied the region for more than 1,000 days, said there are three major antelopes in the region.

"Many landscapes of the Deccan Plateau have been neglected for research for their biodiversity. Kappatagudda Wildlife Sanctuary (WLS) is one among them – neglected due to lack of information about its biodiversity and awareness on its importance. Using 20 camera traps for 1,035 nights, we recorded 18 species of mammals – antelopes, four-horned antelopes, chinkaras and blackbucks. This is the only place where we have found three species of antelopes," HN Kumara, principal scientist, Conservation Biology, SACON, who headed the study, told TNIE.

The study said blackbucks are confined to the plains, chinkaras to the slopes and four-horned antelopes to hilltops. Chinkaras were found in Karnataka a decade ago. P5

Upa Lokayukta inspects hostels at Maharani Cluster Varsity

ENS @Bengaluru

Considering the various issues faced by the students of Maharani Cluster University, Upa Lokayuktas Justice KN Phanindra and Justice B Veerappa paid a surprise visit to the university and its hostels to verify the authenticity of anonymous complaints they had received.

During their visit to the Department of Commerce and Business Management of the university, they found graffiti on walls, damp and damaged walls, broken windows and a general lack of cleanliness and hygiene.

The toilets emitted foul odour, while water tanks had not been cleaned or maintained. The student hostel had insufficient rooms, toilets and bathrooms. The students were also not provided sweets, non-vegetarian foods and eggs at regular intervals as prescribed by the government. They were provided cots with no beds, pillows and bedspreads. In the Home Science Department's hostel, there was no permanent electricity supply, causing inconvenience to students. Furthermore, the hostel also suffered from a severe shortage of potable water and general water supply. They also ordered an inquiry into the issues faced by the students, tasking the Additional Registrar with submitting a report.

'Research institutes thrive when free of political interference'

Indian companies should invest more in research and devpt, says NRM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Kris Gopala Krishnan, Shibulal, Pratima Murthy and K Dinesh at the Infosys Science Foundation Award ceremony in Bengaluru on Thursday

RESEARCH institutions succeed only when they are completely free from interference by bureaucrats and politicians. The freedom allows them to focus on governance, management and academic work without any external pressure, said Infosys founder NR Narayana Murthy.

He was speaking at the Infosys Science Awards, hosted by Infosys Science Foundation (ISF) on Thursday, during which six awardees, including two women, were recognised for their breakthrough research across categories. Each laureate received a gold medal, a citation, and $100,000.

Murthy pointed out that successful institutions share common traits, including academic freedom, openness to new ideas, a culture that values merit over titles, and lack of fear of failure. "The aim is to encourage young researchers to take on challenges and find solutions to great problems," he said. A 'great problem' is one that impacts a large number of people and has solutions based on solid STEM theories. "This ensures the solution is not only effective but also verifiable, repeatable and scalable," he added.

He also mentioned that while there is a lot of wealth in India, more of it should be directed toward research. "Many wealthy individuals donate to charity, education and healthcare, but a portion of this money could also help solve critical research problems," he said, adding that Indian companies do not invest enough in research and development.

ISF president Kris Gopalakrishnan stressed the need to increase research funding in India, pointing out that the country currently spends only 0.7% of its GDP on research. "While the government's expenditure is growing, industry investment should also rise. To encourage this, the government could offer incentives such as tax credits for research investments," he said.

He also highlighted a recent revision in the Infosys Science Foundation's eligibility criteria, changing the upper age limit for awards to 40, which was 50 previously. The foundation has planned a series of lectures in January, where awardees will present their work.

Green buildings key to sustainable devpt: Min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FOREST, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar B Khandre on Thursday said the government has been able to achieve some key objectives to inculcate best practices for environment conservation, protection and combating climate change. But some are yet to be achieved.

"The government is working on the issue of environment degradation in urban areas, but we haven't had a breakthrough yet. Although we have been looking at various options, most of them are not helping enough. One among them is the green building concept we are looking at seriously. We are trying to understand and evaluate how well it can be integrated into our system and can help reverse the trend and achieve sustainable development," Khandre said.

He was speaking at the inauguration of the three-day Green Building Congress 2024, an international conference being held in the city, organised by the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) - Indian Green Building Council (IGBC). Khandre said Karnataka should work on three major concepts to achieve success -- change in policy and rules, training for stakeholders and implementation and monitoring of concepts to make an impact on the ground.

Of the 12.8 billion sqft of green building footprint in India, Karnataka's contribution is 1 billion sqft and it is one of the top three contributing states, having 1,100 green building projects.

Bengaluru has over 70 per cent of Karnataka's green building space, followed by Mangaluru. While it is low, a lot more needs to be done, like setting high targets and goals, as the construction industry is growing rapidly, said B Thiagarajan, national chairman, IGBC. He said that like other states, Karnataka should give 5-10 per cent incentive to buildings certified by IGBC, besides a subsidy in registration and floor area ratio. It should consider raising the cap for installation of solar rooftop panels for better sustainability.

Two Bengaluru students, Varna Vichithran and Priyatham Uppalapati, of BMS College of Architecture, won the IGBC Green Design Competition 2024, on the theme 'Identifying Urban Voids'. Varna won for the plan she created on remodelling of conservancy lanes in Malleswaram, demonstrating how they are used as children's play areas, pet parks, walking or jogging parks, reading nooks and even plant nurseries.

₹2k cr crop insurance paid to farmers, says min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Dwarf cow breeds at the Krishi Mela 2024 at GKVK on Thursday| ALLEN EGENUSE J

INTEGRATED farming, incorporated with modern technology is the way to sustainable and profitable agriculture, opined Agriculture Minister N Chaluvarayaswamy. Speaking after inaugurating the four-day Krishi Mela 2024 organised by the Bengaluru Agricultural University at the GKVK campus, he said this year's agriculture fair is themed around 'Climate-Smart Digital Agriculture' and is a good platform for farmers to become financially strong as it provides insights into sustainable and profitable farming.

More than 78 lakh farmers and more than 125 lakh agricultural workers are engaged in agriculture in the state. The state government has given top priority to agriculture and has distributed machinery and irrigation equipment with a subsidy of about Rs. 1,000 crore last year. He stressed that the state government has distributed crop insurance money of Rs 2,100 crore to farmers through direct cash transfer.

Further, the minister said that Hi-Tech Harvester Hub project has been formed and large-scale crop harvesting machines have been distributed, along with financial assistance. Appreciating the system of the agricultural fair, the minister said that agriculture graduates should adopt self-employment and provide employment and guidance to others.

He also added that 75% of the people in the country depend on agriculture. "In 1964-65, food production at the national level was 45.4 million tonnes, which increased to 332.22 million tonnes in 2023-24. There are plans to take this to 437 million tons by 2047. The role of research by agricultural universities is also important in increasing food production," the minister said.

Chaluvarayaswamy visited and inspected the demonstration fields of various crops grown on trial by GKVK and then flagged off a pesticide-spraying tractor equipped with state-of-the-art automatic machines.

About 650 stalls have been opened this time at Krishi Mela, showcasing latest technology and innovations.

15th November: I was talking to a journalist the other week and found myself, yet again, being asked how astrology works. I wish I knew! All we know is that it gives good results, describing people's characters better than other systems and sometimes making some quite remarkable predictions. That's good enough for me!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Spare a little time for pleasure and self-indulgence, if only as a break from worldly stress. A cultural outing could prove a useful distraction, but low-brow diversions will do the job just as well. What you really need is to be taken out of yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
'Home is where the heart is' is a saying particularly applicable to you. You are going to have to realise, though, that, as much as you wish everything could be perfect, partners may have other ideas. They might also have some useful criticisms to make!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Remarkable opportunities to enhance your reputation are still in the air, although you may have more trouble bringing them to fulfilment. The key to the present time is never to force delicate issues. Instead you should wait until partners are ready to speak.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There will be a time when you will be able to look back on current developments and laugh. In fact, you would do yourself some good if you could smile at whatever is happening now. A good sense of humour could save your life! And it will certainly save you money!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Not everything has been revealed. Although you may say that you have come to terms with alterations and personal adjustments, I doubt whether you are in possession of the full facts. At this stage of the week you deserve a good break, but you may have to wait a little longer.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
On no account should you get involved in any sort of intrigue, especially if it means going behind a relation's back. It must be stressed that this is not a time to settle old scores, not unless you are prepared to take on much more than you can handle.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You seem to go to pieces when your emotional life becomes complicated, but it will help to consider the issues carefully and logically. For a start, you could seriously consider the virtues of boosting your self-confidence in countless little ways.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Yet another tough planetary alignment is on its way, so the emotional temperature is likely to remain high. Still, perhaps you prefer it like that. Remember that your sign has powerful healing qualities, which means that you can bring peace where before there was war.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Planetary influences indicate that you are still experiencing uncertainty; but look deeper and you'll see that your spiritual and mystical self is stirring. It's time to renew your quest for personal meaning, looking within for the answers to questions you've always ignored.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It's not difficult for you to cut a dash. You may be inclined to complain about your lot but, to be perfectly honest, the amount you have gone through over the past few years has given you more maturity than you may recognise. Perhaps other people should listen to you for a change.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There is probably no let-up in the arguments over joint financial arrangements, but it is useful to clear the air. Career changes are looking very auspicious, so do press ahead. It seems likely that an old social contact may provide the quickest route to a new job or responsibility.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Travel stars are still strong and it seems inevitable that an overseas contact will be strengthened or transformed. Develop your mystical tendencies as well, and make the quality of life your priority. After all, what is the good of getting your way if you don't enjoy it?

THE body of a three-year-old boy was exhumed from his grave at Yamnnur village in Navalgund taluk on Thursday, after his parents lodged a complaint that they suspect foul play in the death of their child. The child had died in their neighbour's house, when a piece of heavy agricultural equipment fell on him, leaving him with severe head injuries and profuse bleeding.

Following a complaint filed by the deceased child's parents Venkappa and Shanta, the Navalgund police took up the case and exhumed the body with the help of an earth mover. The tahsildar, police officers and villagers were present during the exhumation. The body has been sent for postmortem and the report is awaited.

Superintendent of Police Gopal Bykod said, "So far, it is known if the boy, Yellappa, was playing in their neighbour's house when the agricultural equipment fell on him. The truth will come out in the post-mortem report."

A resident of Yamannur said Yellapa's parents grew suspicious after a local resident, Nagalinga, left the village soon after the incident. While some people in the village said he left the village to attend some work, others said he is suffering from depression and went to a relative's house.

"There were no such complications when the incident occurred, but justice cannot be denied to the parents of the boy. The parents have taken the right step. Truth will come out after the post-mortem report," he added.

A relative of the deceased said, "It is the right of the parents to know the reason behind their child's death. A case has been registered in this regard. We cannot comment more on this issue."

THE Karnataka High Court on Thursday stayed the investigation in connection with the FIR registered against BJP Lok Sabha member Tejasvi Surya by the Haveri CEN police, on the charges of spreading false news regarding the suicide of Rudrappa, a farmer in Haveri district, with an intent to promote communal disharmony.

Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the interim order after hearing the petition filed by Surya, questioning the legality of the FIR registered under Section 353(2) of the BNS, 2023, based on a complaint filed by Sunil Huchanna on November 7. The court observed that prima facie, there are no ingredients to attract the alleged offence invoked against Surya.

SIT TO PROBE SIX IRON ORE SMUGGLING CASES

This after CBI refuses to investigate matter; 10 companies under radar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Siddaramaiah cabinet on Thursday decided to hand over six cases of smuggling of iron ore to a Special Investigation Team (SIT) as the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) has refused to probe them.

"Of the nine smuggling and illegal mining cases entrusted to CBI for investigation, the state government will hand over six to SIT as the former refused to probe them. The chief secretary has been asked to place details in this regard at the next cabinet meeting. We will discuss and take a call on the matter, including formation of SIT," Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister HK Patil said.

"The matter was discussed at Thursday's cabinet meeting. The CBI, in 2019, informed the state government that it could not probe iron ore smuggling into Goa's Mormugao and Panaji, Tamil Nadu's Ennore and Chennai, Karnataka's New Mangalore and Karwar, and Andhra Pradesh's Krishna Pattanam, Kakinada and Visakhapatnam ports," Patil said.

"All cases of illegal mining have to be properly investigated. Therefore, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has instructed the chief secretary to place details related to the investigation of these cases at the next cabinet meeting," he said.

The minister said the Lokayukta SIT will probe 10 companies under the 'C' category, which caused huge losses to the state's exchequer through illegal mining.

Interestingly, a company owned by former KPCC chief Allam Veerabhadrappa is involved in the alleged illegal mining. Mysore Manganese Company, M Dasharatha Rami Reddy's firm, Karnataka Limpo, Anjana Minerals, Rajiya Khanum's firm, Milan Minerals (Mahalakshi & Co.), Channakesava Reddy's Lakshminarasimha Mining Company, and M Srinivasulu's and G Rayashekhar's companies are accused of illegal iron ore mining.

They were involved in illegal mining in more than 10 areas outside the leased zones and leases were given in violation of the Forest Protection Act and other norms. Therefore, the cabinet decided to ask the Lokayukta SIT to file a case against these companies over their mining leases, he said.

AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge addresses the media in Kalaburagi on Thursday

'Political interference': Kharge slams Adani

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI
@ Kalaburagi

ACCUSING industrialist Gautam Adani of political interference, AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge on Thursday said that the BJP-led Union Government was always supporting the corporates and the rich.

Interacting with the media at his residence in Kalaburagi, Kharge was reacting to Maharashtra DyCM Ajit Pawar's recent statement that Adani was part of a high-level meeting between the NCP and BJP over government formation in Maharashtra in 2019. "Who is Adani? Why does he interfere in Maharashtra politics? The PM is also supporting him," Kharge said.

Kharge said that a government has to support small and medium-scale industries to provide employment to people. "But the NDA government at the Centre supports corporates to run large-scale industries and receives donations from them. That is why people like Adani interfere in politics," Kharge added.

On Uttar Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath on the reservation issue, the Congress chief said, "Who are they to speak about reservation? The Constitution itself has given the right of reservation... nobody can change or alter it. They (BJP) don't even accept the Indian national flag, which has three colours."

He also said that the Congress' priority is development. "We implement schemes that are beneficial to the people. Successful implementation of the guarantee schemes in Karnataka is a testimony to it," he added.

He said people of the country are aware of the BJP's ideology of mixing religion with politics and that the Congress is against such kind of politics.

On the ongoing Assembly polls in Jharkhand and the upcoming polls in Maharashtra, Kharge said that he has toured both the states and the response from voters for the Congress is overwhelming.

'Nexus between netas in power & officials'

DISBANDING the audit of deaths during Covid 19 by the previous government, concealing truth and ensuring that files of misdeeds go missing prompted the Congress government to set up the SIT, HK Patil said. He said the CM will initiate steps to set up the SIT in three days to take further action. He claimed that the PAC headed by him had discovered the nexus between the politicians in power and officials, resulting in corruption.

Instances of hampering the functioning of the then PAC to cover up corruption happened, he alleged. He said when PPE kits were available for Rs 330 to Rs 400 per unit domestically, three lakh of them were bought for Rs 2,117 per unit from China. "Kits were also purchased at Rs 2,117.53 and Rs 2,104 and also at Rs 2,049 per unit from different companies," he alleged. The interim report has a mention of payment of Rs 6.93 crore to private labs by flouting norms, Rs 4.48 crore to eight labs that were not accredited by ICMR in violation of the Centre's guidelines, and labs being paid in arrears without entering into an agreement, he said.

The commission had issued a notice to the chief secretary to take action against the officials involved in the alleged corruption. "Even Rs 7.03 crore meant for campaigning was misused, Chukki Talkies, an agency, was paid Rs 8.85 lakh illegally. The health department had no records for payment of Rs 5 crore to various agencies," he said.

DEPUTY Chief Minister and Karnataka Congress president DK Shivakumar on Thursday defended Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's remarks that the BJP was trying to destabilise the State Government by offering Rs 50 crore each to 50 Congress MLAs.

"The BJP has spoken to our MLAs. They are luring them with Rs 50 crore each. Some of the MLAs reported this to the CM and he spoke about this to the media. I will talk about this later," Shivakumar told the media.

Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said that the BJP and JDS have been making all attempts to destabilise the government and the CM would have made the statements based on the information he has with him. "They (BJP and JDS) also know it [destabilising the government] is not possible, but still, they are trying to contact the MLAs. It has become habitual for them," Dr Parameshwara said. People are taking note of all the developments and the Congress will also explain it to the people, he said, adding that there is no apprehension in Congress, and they will face such attempts. Such developments should not happen in a democratic system, and that too when Congress gets such a big mandate, he added.

BJP to CM: Give us proof, order an investigation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A day after Chief Minister Siddaramaiah alleged that the BJP offered Rs 50 crore each to 50 Congress MLAs to topple the government in Karnataka, saffron party leaders challenged the former to prove his allegations. State BJP president BY Vijayendra said that Siddaramaiah does not trust his MLAs anymore. "The CM has insulted his own party MLAs by referring them as commodities. This is a lie to hide your failures. The CM is unable to control his MLAs and with disappointment, he is making such statements," Vijayendra said, challenging Siddaramaiah to order a probe to bring out the truth. The BJP leader also urged the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) to take up the investigation on its own. Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka, too, south a probe by the ED.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after Channapatna voted in the bypoll, Congress candidate CP Yogeshwara on Thursday admitted that Waqf Minister BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan's alleged racist remarks against Union Minister for Steel and Heavy Industries HD Kumaraswamy might have tilted the balance with regard to the impending results, and he predicted a photo finish on November 23 — the day of the counting.

Yogeshwara had locked horns with former PM HD Deve Gowda's grandson and NDA candidate Nikhil Kumaraswamy, of the JDS.

"Deve Gowda is a colossal figure, and Vokkaligas hold him and his son Kumaraswamy in high esteem. If Zameer's statement has hurt their sentiments, it might have certainly damaged us (Congress). Let us wait for the results to ascertain the true picture. But do not project as if I have already accepted defeat," he stated to reporters in Channapatna.

"The relentless struggle of Deve Gowda and Kumaraswamy, the most prominent leaders of the JDS, and their determination to win the seat for Nikhil, and their hardwork in the field worked out. But there is no disappointment for me either, as this is an even fight, and whoever wins will do so by a narrow margin," he added.

Accused in SDA suicide case get anticipatory bail

ENS @ Belagavi

THE three accused in connection with the suicide of SDA Rudresh Yadavannavar (35), who hanged himself to death inside the Belagavi tahsildar's chamber nine days ago, were granted anticipatory bail by a local court here on Thursday.

Belagavi police had failed to arrest the trio despite the deceased having written a note in the official Whatsapp group that Belagavi tahsildar Basavaraj Nagaral, PA of minister Laxmi Hebbalkar Somu Dodwadi and FDA Ashok Kabbaliger were directly responsible for his death. Police did not make serious attempts to arrest the three accused and allowed them to go scot-free, which helped them get anticipatory bail. Why police did not arrest at least one of the accused, despite having credible evidence, remains a big question. "We faced a lot of injustice in office and everyone should fight unitedly against it,'' Yadavannavar had posted in the WhatsApp group, which went viral after his death. Sources said the harassment he had suffered from the three accused eventually forced him to take the extreme step.

Three days ago, Belagavi MP and former CM Jagadish Shettar said the government had been protecting the accused by not arresting them. Police should have arrested all the accused as it had come to light that they were behind the death, he added.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) on Thursday celebrated the 16th anniversary of the successful impact of the Moon Impact Probe (MIP) of Chandrayyan-1.

Chandrayaan-1 was India's first moon mission which was launched on October 22, 2008. The life of the mission was to be two years, but scientists lost contact with the spacecraft on August 28, 2009. But before that, on November 14, 2008, MIP separated from Chandrayyan-1 and hard landed on the lunar south pole as planned.

According to ISRO scientists, the MIP was a success as Indian scientists confirmed the existence of water on the Moon. ED LAUNCHES MULTI-STATE RAIDS AGAINST CHENNAI LOTTERY KING

Accused's company bought electoral bonds worth over ₹1,300 cr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE/ AGENCIES @Chennai

THE Enforcement Directorate on Thursday conducted fresh searches in multiple states against Chennai-based 'lottery king' Santiago Martin, the single biggest donor to political parties with over Rs 1,300 crore in electoral bonds, as part of a money laundering investigation.

The search operation comes after the Madras High Court recently allowed the ED to proceed against Martin as the Tamil Nadu police had decided to close the predicate or primary FIR against him and a few others and a lower court accepted the police plea.

Sources said at least 20 premises linked to Martin, his son-in-law Aadhav Arjun and associates in Chennai and Coimbatore in Tamil Nadu, Faridabad in Haryana, Ludhiana in Punjab and Kolkata in West Bengal were being searched as part of a "comprehensive" action against his business empire.

In Chennai, searches were conducted at offices in Triplicane, Teynampet and Poes Garden under the security cover provided by the CRPF. Searches, which started at 6.30am at three locations in Coimbatore, continued till evening.

Last year, the directorate had attached assets worth Rs. 457 crore in a case against Martin linked to an alleged loss of over Rs. 900 crore caused to the Sikkim government due to fraudulent sale of the state lottery in Kerala. Martin's Future Gaming Solutions India Pvt. Ltd. is the master distributor of Sikkim lotteries in the country.

Martin recently made news after it came to light through Election Commission data that his company (Future Gaming) was the largest purchaser of electoral bonds worth more than Rs 1,300 crore, between 2019 and 2024, meant for donation to various political parties.

The Madras High Court last month allowed the ED case against Martin and others to go on.

Additional counters should only be permitted on CL-9 licensed (bars) premises, and the related law should be amended to allow parcel supply of liquor and beer, he said. The other demands of the federation are: Conciliation penalties for general prosecutions against licensees should be reduced, and penalties for unlicensed liquor sellers should be increased. Strict legal action should be taken to control illegal sale of liquor in dhabas, hotels and villages. Section 29 of the Excise Act, as amended in 2005, should be reviewed and amended. A fair decision should be taken regarding MSIL licenses. Strict action should be taken to stop selling of fake liquor under the guise of duty-free liquor, liquor from Goa, and raid centres of illicit liquor manufacturers.

Yogi can't bulldoze my dad's principles: Priyank

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kalaburagi

RURAL Development and Panchayat Raj Minister Priyank Kharge has lauded his father Mallikarjun Kharge, AICC president, stating that despite the erstwhile Nizam's Razakars burning his (Mallikarjun Kharge's) house in 1948 and killing his mother and sister, he never used this incident for political gains.

The existence of discriminatory ideology does not make everyone within a community wrong. Does it?

Priyank Kharge, Rural Dvpt Minister

Replying to Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's remarks that Mallikarjun Kharge is silent on the death of his mother and sister in the Razakars' attack as he feared losing Muslim votes, Priyank Kharge posted on social media that his father could become a legislator in the state for nine times, MP twice, RS member and Union minister once, Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha and AICC president now without cashing in on this tragedy.

He said that his father never played the victim card or never spread hatred to become what he is now. It was the Razakars of the then Nizam, who committed this act and not the entire Muslim community. One can't blame a community for the wrong deeds of some of its individuals.

Yogi Adityanath cannot bulldoze the principles followed by Mallikarjun Kharge, Priyank stated.

At 82, Khargeji is fighting tirelessly to uphold the principles and values of Buddha, Basavanna and Ambedkar, and to protect the Constitution from those who hate it. He will continue his struggle against hatredness and divisive forces, Priyank said.

CARNIVORES such as gray wolves, striped hyenas, leopards and golden jackals are in good numbers. Small carnivores such as jungle cats, rusty-spotted cats, small Indian civets, common palm civets, ruddy mongooses, and Indian gray mongooses also exist.

"Among the 18 species here, 16 are protected under Schedule I of the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972, highlighting the importance of the Kappatagudda. Spread across 244.15 sq km in Gadag district with 17,872 ha of hills, the team surveyed 138 sq km in Gadag, Mundargi and Shirahatti taluks," the study said.

The forest has about 400 medicinal plant species. It experiences high velocity wind throughout the year. Because of this, several windmills here generate over 225 MW of energy. The sanctuary faces pressure from locals, who graze cattle, and collect firewood and minor forest produce from there.

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

GOVT MUST USE CENSUS TO START RESOLVING INFILTRATION ISSUE

THE issue of illegal infiltration from Bangladesh has dominated elections over decades in eastern Indian states. In the ongoing assembly elections in Jharkhand, it has emerged as a pivotal point. The main opposition party has levelled allegations of demographic change in the state's tribal areas, and demanded deportation of illegal immigrants. The issue has its roots in the Bangladesh liberation war of 1971. Millions fled East Pakistan and landed in India. The Indian government accepted these refugees and gave them residency permits. But in addition to the war-time influx, illegal migration from Bangladesh has been going on over the years, mostly for economic reasons. The decades-long influx of refugees, displaced persons and infiltrators has blurred the lines between legal and illegal immigrants. The migration has resulted in demographic change in states such as Assam, Tripura and West Bengal, resulting in tensions over resources, cultural identity, jobs, services and political representation.

Illegal migration is not only a subject for political slugfest, but also a national security concern. The new census exercise presents the government an opportunity to examine the blurred lines between legal and illegal. It can become an important step in determining the extent of illegal migration and developing strategies to combat it. It can help verify the status of individuals by cross-referencing documents related to place of birth, period of residence and others. While verifying citizenship, the government must ensure that the privacy, dignity and rights of individuals are not violated. All 'undocumented' persons should not be treated as 'illegals'. The government must proceed on the issue with utmost sensitivity and empathy. The government plans to update the National Population Register to identify and expel the illegals. This exercise must be accompanied by safeguards to prevent the wrongful exclusion of bona fide citizens, particularly vulnerable groups. A transparent appeals process is essential to maintain public trust in the exercise.

The government may also take a series of steps to prevent further influx. These include enhanced border security, use of surveillance drones, fencing and advanced biometric systems to control movement along the border. Identifying illegals is a sensitive issue. The government needs to employ multi-pronged and thoughtful measures to achieve the objectives.

USE SEAPLANES SMARTLY TO TRANSFORM TOURISM

KERALA took a significant step towards enhancing its tourism sector as a17-seater seaplane took off from Kochi and landed next to the Mattupetty dam near Munnar, one of the state's most popular destinations, in just 16 minutes. The journey would have taken over 4 hours by road. The service plans to use small planes with nine, 15, 17, 20 or 30 seats; passengers will board from floating waterdromes. Given its network of backwaters and dams, Kerala offers an ideal environment for using seaplanes. As of now, the plan is to begin services from large dam sites like Banasura Sagar in Wayanad and Mattupetty in Idukki so that the backwaters are not disturbed.

The seaplanes have come at a time when tourism players have been stressing the need for reducing travel times. The service is being operated under the aviation ministry's UDAN scheme to improve connectivity between airports, hill stations and backwaters, and is offering subsidised fares. But the project has its share of opposition too, as environmentalists have raised concerns that it could cause significant ecological disruption in environmentally-sensitive areas. Regular flights would disturb elephants near the proposed landing and take-off sites, it is argued. Fisherfolk have raised concerns that planes landing in the backwaters will affect their livelihood. Environmental groups are preparing to approach the high court to challenge the service citing a Supreme Court order that prohibits recreational activities within 10 km of ecologically-sensitive areas. Supporters of the project, on the other hand, argue that seaplanes would have no negative effects on the water, as it does not discharge oil or other fluids there. They point out it requires only some light infrastructure for passengers to embark and disembark.

However, given the concerns, the government must do an extensive feasibility study and environmental assessment before expanding the project. Everyone must be taken along for the project to become a success. Seaplanes have great potential in a country like India with its extensive coastline, numerous water bodies, and untapped tourism destinations. Along with Kerala, Andhra Pradesh and Lakshadweep too have carried out similar trials. The tourism and environment ministries, along with the aviation authorities and state governments must put their heads together and devise a policy to tap the full potential.

QUICK TAKE

REGULATING COACHING CENTRES

THE new guidelines to prevent coaching centres from publishing misleading advertisements are welcome, though they have come years too late. While issuing the norms, the Central Consumer Protection Authority also said it has recently imposed penalties of ₹54 lakh for misleading ads on 18 institutes. Institutes have been warned against making false claims on their courses offered, faculty qualifications and refund policies; the mention of meritorious students can be made in ads only after their written consent. Given the highly fragmented nature of this booming industry, the need is also for the Centre's National Consumer Helpline to coordinate the follow-up on complaints with the state authorities in a proactive manner.

Indian democracy has become a clichéd arena committed to the bureaucracy of continuity. To make it more diverse, we should talk about policy in playful, accessible terms

HOW TO PLACE THE CITIZEN BACK IN DEMOCRACY

SHIV VISVANATHAN

Social scientist associated with the Compost Heap, a group researching alternative imaginations

ONE of the most dangerous things Indian democracy could do is dabble in the politics of clichés. Democracy as a system can outlay conformity, habit and everydayness. But cliché represents a collective hardening of thought that gets more heartless over time. Cliché, which derives from repeatedness of print, disowns orality as a mode of thinking. Indian democracy, because it disowns orality, has become a failure of memory.

Cliché is a global habit—as mediocrity, it has combined with authoritarianism worldwide. We can see examples in US's Donald Trump, Russia's Vladimir Putin, Turkey's Recep Tayyip Erdogan and even our PM Narendra Modi. The combination of mediocrity and majoritarianism leads to grim prospects of authoritarianism.

One party we hoped would challenge it was the Aam Aadmi Party. It sensed the primordialism and immediacy of protest. One could see it in Anna Hazare's dramatics. However, over time, AAP has become committed to the bureaucracy of continuity and competence. What was supposed to be a meeting place for eccentrics and dissenters became one for professionals and bureaucrats.

AAP today behaves like any other party. As a result, it has lost its sense of charisma, a possibility of creating innovative and dissenting spaces. Delhi would have seen something beyond Lutyens' Delhi, but AAP failed to keep its promise.

Indian politics is at a standstill today. Hysteria becomes a substitute for political dynamism and family decline, an equivalent of institutional decline. There is a third point we must emphasise beyond mediocrity and authoritarianism: the very thinking of parties has turned fuddy and repetitive.

Currently, there are two ways of thinking about parties. One represents the symbolic and representational, and the other the immediate and innovative. The direct democracy movement is a rare example of the latter. One must emphasise that most thinking about parties is representational. One must add that modern semiotics has shown such representation does not go far—that in India, citizenship is more a promissory note, a myth rather than a guarantee of a beginning. It regularises which smells of permanence haunt these encounters.

Semiotics points out that citizenship can be seen as being incomplete. A citizen is subject to role theory. She is either a consumer, a reader, a spectator, or a critic—she is never all of these at once.

This was brought out in the memorable Kitty Genovese incident. Genovese was walking back late one day in 1964 in the New York suburbs. She felt she was being stalked and tried to run, but was attacked by the stalker. As she screamed, the lights of the nearby flats came on. The stalker ran away at first, only to realise that people were just watching. He murdered Kitty, stabbing her over a dozen times. The next day, sociologists found that most people thought they were watching TV. They only considered themselves spectators.

SOURAV ROY

Between the incompleteness of citizenship and the partiality of the role, politics has become schizophrenic. The whole is never more than a sum of the impoverished parts. What we need is a different concept—a different sense of politics that is more innovative, more dynamic and a bit less abstract. AAP tried to do this for a short while, but closed shop like a theatre group that had run its day.

We need a new theory of innovations. We need to dip into memory. The Indian national movement was more poetic about childhood. It was more theoretical about children as an anticipation of citizenship. Whether one reads Tagore or Gandhi or Patrick Geddes, one realises that childhood was seen as hope of deeper ethnographic playfulness. Childhood was seen as anticipating the innovation of citizenship.

We need new notions of childhood to replace the arid ones of school and society. The very idea of development has destroyed the potential of childhood. The source of innovation, the ideas of Maria Montessori and Jiddu Krishnamurti, and the power of folklore have to be relived through childhood.

Childhood also has to be seen as a right of passage with responsibilities of adulthood, and yet has to prevent adulthood from degenerating into a bureaucratic science. A reinvention of childhood as citizenship has to be one of the first goals of a political party. In reinventing childhood, it reinvents self.

Political parties have become sources of standardisation. We look at the marginal as a source of quota and reservation. We don't see him as a possibility for diversity. Today, we ask if the Indian economy is 90 percent informal, then what happens to economics? We can ask similar questions about politics. It is only by sustaining the memory of diversity that Indian democracy can remain diverse in the future.

We also have to look at our institutions closely. We need to invent new institutions—one of the most interesting suggestions in recent times has been knowledge panchayats. This represents a group of diverse people from housewives to farmers debating the fate of policy. Policy cannot be democratic unless people debate and internalise it.

For example, the Narmada dams were a technocratic answer to a technocratic question—questions of democracy and diversity hardly entered the debate. We lobotomised citizenship, considering the citizen not a thinker any longer.

We have to see each citizen as a repository of knowledge, as a thinker, as a philosopher and as a potential future. One has to re-emphasise the old Chinese dictum of every man as a scientist, every village a science academy. The democratisation of democracy has to begin with time. To break the iatrogeny of expert knowledge. Today, policy seems to be subject to illiteracy and the pomposity of the expert.

So, language has to be more playful. We have to debate policy in ordinary language. For this, mass media and education have to lend a hand. The university has to reinvent itself as a cornucopia of modes of dissenting styles. The university is the first opposition party. It is only after that that other dissenting groups come into play. Without realising the cognitive power of the university, democracy is damaging itself, rendering itself into a monolithic language.

It is only with new ideas of citizenship and fresh ideas about democracy that India can redeem itself. Blaming politicians for everything is not the solution.

SHRINKING LANDING SPACE FOR FILM STARS IN POLITICS

SUMANTH C RAMAN

Political analyst, television anchor and author of Sick Business: The Truth Behind Healthcare in India

AS mega stars who dazzled their audiences, they have had a mesmerising hold on fans. It's a hold that some of them successfully converted into political vote banks. We are, of course, talking of film stars of southern India, with the notable exception of Kerala. In Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh and to a lesser extent in Karnataka, until even a few decades ago, being a star from tinseltown was seen almost as a ticket to political office.

MG Ramachandran was perhaps the trend-setter. But he was not just a star. MGR was an active member of the DMK for over a decade and rose to become the party treasurer. During the period he was in the party, he carefully cultivated his screen image. He would always portray the do-gooder, the underdog taking on the powerful. His directors would back him with powerful punchlines and memorable lyrics loaded with political significance.

Thus, when he chose to break away and form the AIADMK he was, in many ways, bigger than his former party. Electoral success followed almost immediately. Once he came to power, as long as he was alive he was never defeated.

Jayalalithaa, a popular actress and MGR's heroine in several hit movies, too had an innings in the AIADMK, as propaganda secretary and Rajya Sabha MP when MGR was the chief minister. In her case, it was not just the star image or roles she did that helped her in politics. It was her proximity to MGR and only after his death that she came into her own, or in some ways was forced to as a bulk of the party backed MGR's widow Janaki. Jayalalithaa found herself fighting a battle for legitimacy. She won it resoundingly and the rest is history.

The case of N T Rama Rao in AP was quite different. In his movie career, NTR played the role of not just the hero but of gods in so many films that people actually believed him to be superhuman. His appearances as Lord Krishna, a role he essayed in as many as 17 films, had a magical hold on Telugu audiences. He played almost every major god in the Hindu pantheon. To the audiences in AP, he was almost a devudu or god himself.

He founded the Telugu Desam Party in March 1982, and by January 1983, was the chief minister of AP, winning the assembly elections by a landslide.

In more recent times, the going has been more difficult for stars. The likes of Kamal Haasan, Prakash Raj, Sarath Kumar have all come a cropper while the late Vijayakanth tasted moderate success, albeit in an alliance with the AIADMK. Rajinikanth, after keeping the public guessing about his political plunge for over two decades, pulled out at the last minute.

PTI

> With 24x7 scrutiny on social media, movie stars are finding it more difficult to have a lasting effect in politics on their own. In the last 25 years, no actor has emerged as the leader of a dominant party—the few who made it largely depended on alliances. Yet, new aspirants like Vijay from Tamil Nadu are taking the plunge

In AP, Pawan Kalyan is now the deputy chief minister. But while his movie career fetched him a huge fan base, his success can be attributed to more than just the roles he essayed. He started off as the youth wing leader of his brother megastar Chiranjeevi's Praja Rajyam Party. It was only six years later that he floated his own outfit, the Jana Sena. And it has been the alliance with the TDP and BJP that finally helped him make it big.

The new kid on the political block is Tamil star Vijay. His fan base is largely the youth and, based on their support, he has launched his Tamizhaga Vettri Kazhagam. His movie roles have largely been those of the anti-establishment hero taking on the odds. Nothing unique there, except several of his movies have been huge box office hits, making him one of the highest paid actors in the industry today.

At his recent party conference, he identified the BJP and DMK as his two political rivals and said he was open to alliances for the 2026 assembly elections. If he contests as part of a strong alliance, he could have a political future.

The list of southern stars who made it to parliament is long. Ambareesh and Sumalatha from Karnataka, Chiranjeevi who was also a Union minister, Suresh Gopi from Kerala who is now a minister in the Modi government, and a number of lesser-known stars made it to the Lok Sabha. Most of them succeeded as members of national or established regional parties and did not strike out on their own.

With the passage of time and the emergence of social media, the era of movie stars making a big impact in politics is starting to diminish. In the last 25 years, no actor has been able to emerge as the leader of a dominant party in any state. The few who have made it have largely depended on alliances; their longevity in politics is as yet unproven.

Maybe the 24x7 scrutiny politicians now face thanks to social media is exposing some of the inadequacies of stars, something that may have gone unnoticed even two decades ago. People now are also much more educated and can separate reel from real.

What ultimately is the message that voters are sending to actors? Their star status can ensure they are listened to. The curiosity factor will ensure crowds will initially throng their meetings to hear them. But that is where the indulgence seems to stop. Thereafter, the public is going to judge them much like any other political leader: on their ideology, their work as a politician and of course, their money and muscle power.

Those from the movie industry who thought they had a free ticket to political stardom have realised they face a rude awakening. That ride may only get rougher in the years ahead.

Inflation effect

Ref: Spectre of food inflation haunts the economy again (Nov 14). While the Maruti Suzuki chairman is forthright in admitting an unprecedented low in car sales, it alarmingly indicates the effect inflation has on the common public. Almost all essential commodities except groceries and food items have been consigned to luxuries. It is high time the central bank evolved an acceptable monetary policy so that trade and businesses could regroup into some normalcy.

MEA seeks extradition of Arsh Dalla from Canada

Nijjar aide, who was arrested, to appear before Ontario court for bail

YESHI SELI & HARPREET BAJWA
@ New Delhi/Chandigarh

INDIA has urged Canada to extradite proclaimed offender Arsh Singh Gill alias Arsh Dalla following reports of his arrest on November 10. A case against him is listed for hearing in an Ontario court.

"In view of the recent arrest, our agencies will be following up on an extradition request, given Dalla's criminal record in India and his involvement in similar illegal activities in Canada. It is expected that he will be extradited or deported to face justice in India," said spokesperson for the Ministry of External Affairs Randhir Jaiswal on Thursday.

Arsh Dalla is a proclaimed offender in over 50 cases of murder, attempt to murder, extortion and terrorist attacks, including terror financing. In May 2022, a "red corner notice" was issued against him. He was designated in India as an individual terrorist in 2023. In July 2023, the Indian government had requested Canada for his provisional arrest, which was declined. India provided additional information in the case.

A separate request was also sent to Canada under the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty to verify Arsh Dalla's suspected residential address, his financial transactions to India, moveable/immovable properties and details of mobile numbers, all of which were provided to the Canadian authorities in January 2023.

Proclaimed offender
Arsh Dalla is a proclaimed offender in over 50 cases of murder, extortion and terrorist attacks, including terror financing. In May 2022, a "red corner notice" was issued against him. He was designated in India as an individual terrorist in 2023. In July 2023, the India had requested Canada for his provisional arrest, which was declined.

Meanwhile, Dalla, an aide of slain pro-Khalistani Hardeep Singh Nijjar, will appear before the Ontario court for bail.

Dalla was one of two persons arrested by Halton Regional Police (HRP) on October 28 for a shooting incident. As per a statement from the Halton Regional Police Service at the time, it was contacted by Guelph Police in the early morning of October 28, after two males attended a hospital. One of them was treated and released for a non-life-threatening gunshot wound.

The HRP Crime Bureau is investigating even as both males have been arrested. Those arrested were not identified but were a 25-year-old resident of Halton Hills and a 28-year-old resident of Surrey, BC. They were both charged with discharging a firearm with intent, it added.

Both the accused were held in custody pending a bail hearing on Wednesday. In the court docket, one was identified as Arshdeep Gill.

Dalla hails from Punjab's Moga and has been accused of orchestrating criminal activities in the state from his base in Canada for the past about five years. He is accused of multiple targeted killings in Punjab.

NIA attaches LeT operative's assets

> Investigations led to the arrest of Langoo, Dar and Dawood following the killing of the two non-locals on February 7, while the Pakistan-based mastermind Jahangir is still at large
>
> NIA

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

IN an ongoing bid to dismantle the terror network in Jammu and Kashmir, the National Investigation Agency (NIA) has attached the immovable property of a key terror accused linked with Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) offshoot The Resistance Front (TRF).

The move was in view of his involvement in a case linked to killing of two non-locals at Shala Kadal in the old city area of Srinagar on February 7 this year, officials said on Thursday.

According to an official, the property of Adil Manzoor Langoo was attached on Wednesday in a case relating to the shooting of two non-locals at Shala Kadal in the old city area of Srinagar on February 7 this year.

Amritpal Singh, a labourer from Amritsar, was killed by terrorists, while another non-local worker, Rohit Masih, who was injured in the incident, died three days later.

"The weapon used in the crime was recovered, along with ammunition, from the 10 marla property transferred to Langoo's father and some others by its original owner. The property in Zaldagar, Srinagar, was attached under Section 25 of UA (P) Act, 1967," the NIA said in a statement, which added that the case relates to a conspiracy hatched by Langoo, along with two others — Ahran Rasool Dar and Dawood.

The NIA said that the accused, led by their TRF/LeT handler in Pakistan, conspired to kill innocent people in India with the objective of spreading terror and inciting violence.

"Investigations led to the arrest of Langoo, Dar and Dawood following the killing of the two non-locals on February 7, while the Pakistan-based mastermind Jahangir is still at large. Langoo, arrested on February 12, is currently lodged in Central Jail, Srinagar," it said.

Terror outfit
The NIA said that TRF, which surfaced in 2019 as a proxy outfit of LeT, is also designated as a terrorist organisation. It has been responsible for several attacks and killings of non-local civilians in Kashmir, including those belonging to religious minorities.

Meghalaya outfit declared unlawful

> There exist circumstances that render it necessary to declare the group along with all its factions, wings and front organisations as an unlawful association with immediate effect
>
> MHA

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE government on Thursday issued a notification declaring the Meghalaya-based Hynniewtrep National Liberation Council (HNLC) — along with all its factions, wings and front organisations — as an 'unlawful association' under provisions of the anti-terror law UAPA for five years from November 16, 2024.

In the notification issued by the Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA), the move was taken considering the unlawful activities committed in the past by the HNLC, which has been found to be involved in activities that "are prejudicial" to the sovereignty and integrity of India.

According to the notification, "There exist circumstances that render it necessary to declare the group along with all its factions, wings and front organisations as an unlawful association with immediate effect."

The MHA said the action has been taken under sub-section (3) in the section 3 of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967, as the Centre thinks that the HNLC has declared the objective for secession of areas in Meghalaya largely inhabited by Khasi and Jaintia tribes.

It further alleged that the outfit "continued intimidation and bullying of the civilian population for extortion of funds for their organisation, as well as maintained links with other insurgent groups of the north-eastern region for carrying out extortion and intimidation".

"The HNLC also indulged in 48 criminal cases, including several cases of explosion or planting of explosives in Meghalaya from November 16, 2019 to June 30, 2024," the notification said.

It also mentioned that during the period, the arrest of 73 HNLC cadres took place, whereas three of its cadres surrendered.

State on same page
The government of Meghalaya has also recommended for declaration of the Hynniewtrep National Liberation Council as an unlawful association under the provisions of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967.

CJI issues fresh roster, first 3 benches to hear PILs

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

CHIEF Justice Sanjiv Khanna has come out with a fresh roster for allocation of new cases to 16 benches of the Supreme Court and it has been decided that the first three courts presided over by the CJI and the two senior-most judges will hear letter petitions and PILs.

The roster for the assignment of fresh cases was notified by the apex court registry under the CJI's order and has come into effect from November 11.

The fresh petitions arising out of letters written by the citizens to the apex court and the new public interest litigations (PIL) will be heard by the benches presided over by the CJI, Justice BR Gavai and Justice Surya Kant, the two senior-most judges.

Besides the letter petitions and the PILs, subject-wise, the CJI-led bench will be dealing with a maximum number of issues, including those related to social justice, disputes related to election of the President, Vice-President and other cases related to election of MPs and MLAs, habeas corpus matters and arbitration. The benches, presided over by Justice Kant, will hear election-related pleas.

Former CJI U U Lalit was allocating PILs to all the benches. This practice was discontinued by his successor, Chief Justice DY Chandrachud, who had implemented a more diverse and flexible approach to case assignment. The new roster is seen as an attempt to consolidate judicial efficiency while maintaining transparency in case distribution.

The subject-wise allocation of cases has been done for 16 senior judges who will be presiding over benches.

Justice JB Pardiwala, who was sharing the bench with former CJI Chandrachud, will now be dealing with direct and indirect tax matters besides ordinary civil cases.

Besides the three senior-most judges, the other 13 judges are justices Hrishikesh Roy, AS Oka, Vikram Nath, JK Maheshwari, BV Nagarathna, CT Ravikumar, MM Sundresh, Bela M Trivedi, PS Narasimham, Sudhanshu Dhulia, JB Pardiwala, Dipankar Datta and Pankaj Mithal.

The 16 senior judges, now tasked with overseeing these cases, will preside over a range of subject-specific benches, ensuring that each judge is assigned cases based on their expertise. Justice Pardiwala will now be responsible for direct and indirect tax matters, in addition to handling ordinary civil cases. This marks a notable shift in the way judicial responsibilities are being managed.

Plea for docs to specify drugs' side-effects nixed

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Thursday dismissed a plea seeking a direction to mandate the medical professionals to specify to patients all possible risks and side effects associated with a drug being prescribed.

"It is not practical," said a bench of Justices BR Gavai and KV Viswanathan.

The court was hearing a plea challenging the Delhi High Court's May 15 order, which had rejected it.

Advocate Prashant Bhushan, appearing for petitioner Jacob Vadakkanchery, said the plea raises an important issue as to whether the doctors should be obliged to inform their patients about the possible side effects of medicines they prescribe.

The apex court bench observed a general practitioner may not be able to cater to more than 10-15 patients if this is followed and then there may be cases under the Consumer Protection Act.

"It will help in avoiding consumer protection cases of medical negligence," said Bhushan.

Fire power: DRDO completes flight tests of guided Pinaka weapon system

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) on Thursday successfully completed the flight tests of the guided Pinaka weapon system as part of the provisional staff qualitative requirements validation trials.

The flight tests have been conducted in three phases at different field firing ranges, the defence ministry said.

During these tests, various parameters — ranging, accuracy, consistency and rate of fire for multiple target engagement in a salvo mode — have been assessed by extensive testing of rockets. As many as a dozen rockets from each production agency from two in-service Pinaka launchers upgraded by various agencies have been tested, MoD said.

The precision strike variant for Pinaka multiple launch rocket system is totally indigenous. It is developed by Armament Research and Development Establishment in association with Research Centre Imarat, Defence Research and Development Laboratory, High Energy Materials Research Laboratory and Proof & Experimental Establishment with Munitions India Limited and Economic Explosives Limited as production agencies. Also involved are Tata Advanced Systems Ltd and Larsen & Toubro for the Pinaka launcher and battery command post.

WHO red-flags growing risk of diabetes in SE Asia

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

DIABETES affected nearly 246 million people in the South-East Asia Region in 2022, but more than 60% of people with suffering from this chronic disease in the region are unaware of their status, the WHO said Thursday.

On the occasion of World Diabetes Day, the World Health Organisation (WHO) said the outcomes of untreated and uncontrolled diabetes range from heart attacks, strokes, kidney failure, blindness, and amputations.

"These complications not only impose an emotional and financial burden on individuals and families but also significant financial strain on healthcare systems," said Saima Wazed, WHO Regional Director for South-East Asia (SEARO).

In the Region, which has 11 members, including India, less than one in three adults with diabetes are on treatment and less than 15 % of people living with diabetes have the disease status under control.

According to a study published in Lancet, India recorded the highest number of diabetics globally in 2022, accounting for over a quarter of the world's 828 million cases.

ABOUT 62% OF DIABETICS IN INDIA WERE NOT RECEIVING ANY TREATMENT

Around 212 million people in India, about 23.7% of the population, were living with diabetes in 2022, said the report by the NCD Risk Factor Collaboration and WHO. It added that nearly 62% of diabetics in India were not receiving any treatment for their condition.

This year the theme for World Diabetes Day is Breaking Barriers, Bridging Gaps.

Wazed stressed that the public need to be made aware of prevention, detection, and management of diabetes through awareness campaigns integrated with campaigns aimed at healthy lifestyles, and those targeted at maternal, child and adolescent health considering the life course approach.

"The lack of readiness of our primary healthcare systems in terms of standard management protocol availability of essential medicines, issues related to availability and affordability of quality diagnostics, and trained healthcare professionals need to be remedied immediately," she said.

Prevention of risk factors of diabetes needs an enabling environment and implementing WHO best buys interventions in the national context through a multisectoral approach.

The policy and programmatic initiatives taken by countries of the South-East Asia Region to address tobacco control, obesity, trans fatty acid elimination, and physical inactivity are positive steps and are being identified as good practices globally, she added.

Bridging the service gaps to ensure timely access to diabetes care can save lives. "The care services need to be equitable, comprehensive, accessible, and affordable," she said.

The countries in the WHO South-East Asia Region, are making steady progress in the provision of services for the management of diabetes. More than 23 million people with diabetes have been placed on protocol-based management by mid-2024 aiming to reach the SEAHEARTS target of 100 million with diabetes and hypertension to be placed on standard treatment by 2025.

● PM says Cong against quota ● Won't allow shifting of projects from Maha, says LoP ● Home minister raises influx

Modi raps Oppn on Maratha pride

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday attacked the Opposition in Maharashtra, accusing them of having a problem with Sambhaji Maharaj's name.

Modi was addressing a rally at Sambhaji Nagar in the poll-bound state. He said those who see their "messiah" in a person who killed the Maratha warrior-king stood against the state and the Maratha pride. "Aren't these people against our identity? Will Maharashtra ever accept such people?" he said.

Sambhaji Maharaj was the son of Maratha icon Chhatrapati Shivaji. He was killed by the Mughal emperor Aurangzeb.

The PM attacked the Congress, saying it is against reservation and development. "To form the government, the Congress party believes in creating divisions and not development. From the beginning, Congress has been against reservation. Old advertisements which are going viral on the internet nowadays show the real thinking of Congress about reservations," said the PM.

He said Congress called reservation benefits against the country. "The Congress mentality and agenda remain the same even today. For the last 10 years, it is tough for them to tolerate a PM who belongs to the OBCs," he added.

He said the MahaYuti government renamed Aurangabad as Chhatrapati Sambhajinagar and fulfilled Shiv Sena founder Balasaheb Thackeray's wish.

In Raigarh district's Panvel, the PM said Congress always worked to keep the poor as poor. "The Congress gave the false slogan 'Garibi hatao', but nothing was done for the poor people," Modi said.

Rahul: MahaYuti snatched 5L jobs

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

LEADER of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Thursday alleged that five lakh jobs in Maharashtra were snatched as various big projects were shifted to other states. Rahul has made the shifting of development projects as a major election issue.

Addressing a rally in Nandurbar, he said, "Such arbitrary shifting is simply injustice. We will not allow it," he said.

In Nanded, visited the government bus stand and distributed congress pamphlets detailing the party's guarantees. He met women passengers and promised that once the MVA government was elected, it would announce the bus travel free-of-cost to women passengers.

"PM Modi feels the "red book" of the Constitution he carries is blank because he has never read it. The BJP has objections to the red colour of the book (which Gandhi has been displaying in rallies). But for us, irrespective of the colour, we are committed to preserve it (Constitution) and ready to give up our lives too. Modi ji feels the Constitution (book) is blank because he has never read it," he said.

He said the Constitution represents the soul of India, embodying the principles of national icons such as Birsa Munda, BR Ambedkar, and Mahatma Gandhi.

Rahul said his party wanted greater representation for adivasis, Dalits, and backward classes in decision-making.The senior Congress leader accused the BJP of insulting national icons and tribals by referring to them as "vanvasi" instead of "adivasi."

Shah, Soren sell BJP, JMM models

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

CLAIMING that Congress will not even get five seats in Jharkhand, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Thursday said voters have "rejected the alliance of Jharkhand Mukti Morcha and Congress" in the first phase of polling.

"Do the people want to know the results? I will leak the paper. In the first phase, JMM and Congress were wiped out," Shah stated.

Training guns at Chief Minister Hemant Soren, Shah alleged, "He (Soren) will give reservation to Muslims. The reservation of OBCs, Dalits and tribals will have to be cut." The BJP would identify every infiltrator and throw them out, he added.

Reiterated Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge's recent advice to party leaders to make only those promises that they can be fulfilled, the home minister alleged, "Not a single promise was fulfilled in Karnataka...not even in Himachal or Telangana."

"Narendra Modi, on the other hand, does what he says. We have promised that every Didi will get Rs 2,100 every month. Every woman will get a gas cylinder for Rs 500. Two cylinders will be given free" Shah added.

JHARKHAND

'Muslim quota'

Shah alleged that CM Heman Soren would give reservations to Muslims if his party retained power. If this happens, the quota for OBCs, Dalits and tribals will have to be cut, he claimed.

'Beware of bird catchers'

Equating BJP leaders with "bird catchers", Soren asked people to keep away from the "thieves of MLAs, MPs and democracy."

"Many bird catchers from all over the country are roaming here. They are the theives of democracy, MPs, and MLAs. I have come here to warn you to keep away from them," he alleged.

Soren said his government has implemented the old pension scheme, and even the lawyers get pensions.

Punjab smoke on world tour: Mann to Maryam

Delhi has blamed Punjab's farm fires for the suffocating smog and Pakistan's Punjab, too, has repeated the charge with Maryam Nawaz, CM of Pakistan side of Punjab, reportedly contemplating writing to CM Bhagwant Mann on the subject. To both -- Centre and Pakistan -- Mann came out with a witty quip: "Looks like our Punjab smoke is on a world tour!" Mann then sarcastically urged Maryam to write to him about her "woes." Maryam has alleged polluted smoke travelling from this side of Punjab to Lahore where the air quality index has hit the highest level of pollution. Mann called for unity rather than finger-pointing.

Mann shows his love for fans at poll rally

At a bypoll rally in the state, Mann was greeted with an affectionate "Bhai, love you." The Punjab CM, who was listing out his government's pro-people policies, when the same supporter added more sugar to his affection: "Love you 2, 3 and 4 times." The CM paused before winsomely responding with: "It (his appreciation) is 5, 6 and 7 times." He went on with his remarks about his love for the people. "Anyone can meet him and take selfies." He said people were generally afraid of meeting leaders of other parties, as if "they would be robbed of their valuables."

Channi, Bittu & Neetu – the fight goes on

Old adversaries, former CM Charanjit Singh Channi and Union minister Ravneet Singh Bittu, were at it again during bypoll campaigning. While speaking at Barnala, Channi said that even Neetu Shattran Wala could become the CM but not Bittu. Neetu became a social media star after he wept inconsolably on camera claiming he had got just five votes in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections from Jalandhar though his family had nine members. In his response, Bittu said that it was for the first time that a CM lost from both seats that he contested in the 2022 assembly elections. Bittu also accused Channi of being involved in a #MeToo case, claiming he had sent indecent messages to a senior IAS officer in November 2018.

UP agrees to protesters' demand, PSC exams to be held on single day

AGENCIES @ Lucknow

AGREEING to the demands of aspirants, the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (UPPSC) on Thursday postponed the Review Officer and Assistant Review Officer exams, and announced that it will hold the Provincial Civil Services (PCS) Preliminary Exam-2024 on the old pattern on a single day.

The Commission also announced that it will form a committee on Review Officer (RO) and Assistant Review Officer (ARO) exams to ensure its transparency and fairness.

While the announcement of conducting the PCS preliminary exam on a single day brought happiness to some candidates, those preparing for the RO and ARO exams appeared a bit disappointed. The protesters said they will continue the agitation till a decision is taken on the RO and ARO exams.

On the directives of Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, the UPPSC has decided to postpone the RO and ARO exams and hold the PCS preliminary exam on the old pattern, Commission Secretary Ashok Kumar said outside the UPPSC office.

Kumar said in view of the incidents of paper leaks in many parts of the country in recent months, the Uttar Pradesh government has decided to ensure the purity and transparencyFor this reason, the Commission had announced to conduct the proposed PCS and RO/ARO examinations in multiple shifts in December.

Samajwadi Party supremo Akhilesh Yadav on Thursday slammed the BJP government in UP for its handling of the protest by UPPSC exam aspirants in Prayagraj and failure to properly organise the exams.

"Those who talk about 'One Nation, One Election' cannot even manage exams for students on a single day," the former chief minister alleged.

Raj violence over slapgate, candidate held

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

INDEPENDENT candidate Naresh Meena was arrested on Thursday following high drama and violence in the Deoli-Uniara assembly seat in Rajasthan's Tonk where bypolls were held on Wednesday.

During the polls, Meena, a Congress rebel contesting as an Independent, slapped Malpura SDM Amit Chaudhary outside a polling booth in front of hundreds of people, accusing the official of influencing voters.

The incident triggered protests from both his supporters and Rajasthan Administrative Service officials. Meena's supporters clashed with police and indulged in violence.

"Samravata village witnessed ruckus, stone pelting, and arson late on Wednesday night when police tried to apprehend Naresh Meena, after he allegedly physically assaulted SDM Amit Chaudhary at a polling booth," Ajmer range inspector-general of police Om Prakash said.

About 60 two-wheelers and 24 four-wheelers, including police vehicles, were torched in the violence that erupted outside the polling booth in Samravta village when police tried to prevent Meena and his supporters from sitting on dharna, he said. The mob allegedly assaulted some journalists and burnt their camera.

"About 60 people were arrested in the early hours of Thursday following the violence that also saw crowds pelting stones at police personnel," Prakash said. Work across government offices in the state was hit in the morning with officials of the RAS Association and allied services going on a pen-down strike demanding that Meena be arrested. They said they would continue till a meeting with Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma.

Police attempted to apprehend Meena late on Wednesday night, but he evaded them, sparking unrest among his supporters. Angry protesters caused chaos in Samravata, setting vehicles on fire. Police later recovered empty cartridges from the scene, indicating that shots were fired during the disturbance. Meena and his supporters in the village, however, accuse the police of engineering the arson and violence.

"Nearly 24 large vehicles and 60 motorcycles were set on fire, with major damage to several homes in the area. As a result, Special Task Force (STF) units were deployed early on Thursday morning," an officer said.

Police administration, which included senior officers in full riot gear, were deployed in full strength and held a flag march. Tonk Superintendent of Police Vikas Sangwan gave the final direction to the police team to enter the village and take Meena in its custody. Police arrested Meena later on Thursday, which further agitated his supporters. Some enraged supporters set large tyres ablaze on the state highway outside the village, blocking traffic and intensifying the standoff.

"Authorities remain on high alert, and additional police forces have been deployed to restore order. The situation is being closely monitored as tensions continue to simmer," the police officer said.

Drug abuse up, tech-savvy peddlers in J&K using drones to push contraband

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

DRUG peddlers are finding new ways to supply narcotics. In Srinagar, the police busted a ring of three drug peddlers who were found using drones in their trade to monitor movement of consumers and also keep track of police movement. This is for the first time that drone has been found in peddlers' possession in the Valley.

A police officer said the cops intercepted three persons riding a motorcycle in Safa Kadal area of downtown Srinagar a few days back. The trio identified as Ajaz Ahmad Ganie, Owais Ahmad Gojree and Mir Roman -- all residents of Srinagar -- were thoroughly searched by the policemen.

"During search, 140 bottles of codeine phosphate concealed in a box, cash amounting to ₹38,530, 1 drone and 3 cellphones were recovered from their possession," the officer said.

The recovery of the drone has raised a security alarm. A police team questioned the three drug peddlers about the recovery. "A preliminary investigation revealed that these peddlers were using drones to monitor the movement of consumers (buyers). Through drone surveillance, they were ensuring that the buyers were not accompanied by policemen," said police officer.

Security officials are probing whether drones have been used to transport narcotics. "All angles are being probed and the origin of the drone is also being ascertained," a security official said.

Disaster prep: 13 glacial lakes under surveillance

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

LANDSLIDE dams and glacial lakes pose threats to Uttarakhand and other Himalayan states, which call for increased vigilance and disaster mitigation measures, experts said.

"Natural disasters cannot be prevented, but effective management and mitigation efforts can significantly reduce loss of life and property," Vinod Kumar Suman, the state's secretary for disaster management, told this newspaper on Thursday.

"Uttarakhand and other Himalayan states are extremely vulnerable when it comes to disasters. Accordingly, disaster management strategies and plans are being implemented," he said.

Shantanu Sarkar, director of Uttarakhand Landslide Mitigation and Management Centre (ULMMC), said, "Thirteen glacial lakes have been identified in Uttarakhand, five of which are classified as extremely high-risk. We are studying these lakes to mitigate potential risks in future. In this regard, analysis of satellite data is ongoing."

During a seminar organized by the Himalayan Society of Geoscientists and ULMMC, senior scientist BD Patni said, "We must enhance our monitoring and management strategies to address these new threats effectively."

Hydropower investment worth ₹70K crore at stake

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

EXTREME weather events in Uttarakhand have put 15 hydropower projects (HPP) worth over ₹70,000 crore at risk, says a report by the think tank Climate Risk Horizons.

The report, 'Navigating climate-related financial risks', has assessed the vulnerability of basins, construction of hydro projects and their shooting costs due to frequent climate-related disasters.

"15 HPPs of 10,678 MW with 70,150.30 crore investment have been facing formidable challenges posed by natural hazards, including intense rainfall, landslides, flash floods, glacial lake outburst floods (GLOF) and droughts," said the report released on Wednesday.

Researchers have identified Joshimath-Srinagar basin as the most vulnerable, followed by Tehri-Uttarkashi and Pithoragarh-Bageshwar basins where all the HPPs in various stages of development "are at risk of being destroyed or delayed by extreme weather events."

The report was based on a case study of the 2021 flash floods in Chamoli, which destroyed Tapovan-Vishnugad hydropower project. "The initial project cost of ₹2,978 crore has more than doubled due to the flash floods," the report said. "We need to rethink how and where we build these projects, says Sagar Asapur, lead author.

WASHINGTON

REPUBLICANS have won enough seats to control the US House, completing the party's sweep into power and securing their hold on US government alongside President-elect Donald Trump.

A House Republican victory in Arizona, alongside a win in slow-counting California earlier on Wednesday, gave the GOP the 218 House victories that make up the majority. Republicans earlier gained control of the Senate from Democrats.

With hard-fought yet thin majorities, Republican leaders are envisioning a mandate to upend the federal government and swiftly implement Trump's vision for the country.

The incoming president has promised to carry out the country's largest-ever deportation operation, extend tax breaks, punish his political enemies, seize control of the federal government's most powerful tools and reshape the U.S. economy. The GOP election victories ensure that Congress will be onboard for that agenda, and Democrats will be almost powerless to check it.

Trump on Wednesday nominated traditional hawk Marco Rubio as secretary of state and contrarian non-interventionist Tulsi Gabbard as intelligence chief, setting a showdown on his administration's direction.

Trump went ahead with the nomination of Rubio, which had been reported for days, despite pushback from some supporters including those close to Gabbard, who before the election had described the senator as part of the "neocon warmongering establishment."

Gabbard, a former Democrat who campaigned across the country with Trump, has long taken positions outside the Washington establishment, which she has accused of starting wars for its own benefit.

Gabbard publicly doubted the intelligence community which she is now named to head after it concluded that Syrian strongman Bashar al-Assad carried out a chemical attack that killed dozens.

Trump also announced firebrand ex-lawmaker Matt Gaetz as his pick for attorney general Wednesday, naming a fierce defender who would be well-placed to make good on the president-elect's threats of revenge against political foes.

"Few issues in America are more important than ending the partisan Weaponisation of our Justice System," Trump posted on social media. "Matt will end Weaponized Government… and restore Americans' badly-shattered Faith and Confidence in the Justice Department."

Gaetz, a Floridian and a US congressman since 2017, is among Trump's most controversial nominations as he looks to fill out his cabinet. Gaetz resigned from his seat in the House of Representatives after his announcement. AFP/AP

Human rights watch accuses Israel of war crimes

JERUSALEM

HUMAN Rights Watch says Israel has committed war crimes and crimes against humanity in the Gaza Strip, including massive forced displacements that amount to ethnic cleansing.

A report released by the New York-based rights group on Thursday says Israeli evacuation orders have often caused 'grave harm' to civilians.

People have been killed while evacuating and in Israeli-designated humanitarian zones, where hundreds of thousands are crammed into squalid tent camps.

"The Israeli government cannot claim to be keeping Palestinians safe when it kills them along escape routes, bombs so-called safe zones, and cuts off food, water, and sanitation," said Nadia Hardman, refugee and migrant rights researcher at Human Rights Watch.

The report said the widespread, deliberate demolition of homes and civilian infrastructure in Gaza – some of them to carve a new road bisecting the territory and establish a buffer zone along Israel's border – was likely to 'permanently displace' many Palestinians. "Such actions of the Israeli authorities amount to ethnic cleansing," Human Rights Watch said.

The Israeli military did not immediately respond to a request for comment on the report. Human Rights Watch called on governments to stop supplying weapons to Israel and to comply with a July opinion by the International Court of Justice saying Israel's presence in the Palestinian territories is unlawful and must end.

The group says its researchers interviewed 39 displaced Palestinians in Gaza, reviewed evacuation orders Israel has released throughout the war and analyzed satellite imagery and video of attacks along evacuation routes and in safe zones.

Syria's state news agency said Israel carried out two airstrikes on a western neighbourhood Damascus and one of the capital's suburbs, killing at least 15 people. One of the strikes targeted an office of the Palestinian Islamic Jihad group. Sixteen people were also wounded in the airstrikes. AP

Early trends show NPP win in Lankan parliamentary polls

COLOMBO

THE ruling National People's Power party led by President Anura Kumara Dissanayake is poised for a sweeping victory in the Sri Lankan parliamentary election held on Thursday.

As of 11 pm, with partial results declared, the NPP has secured a substantial 70% of the vote. The main opposition, Samagi Jana Balawegaya (SJB), and the National Democratic Front (NDF), backed by former president Ranil Wickremesinghe, have been reduced to just 11% and 5% of the vote, respectively.

In the only polling division result announced so far, the NPP won decisively in the southern province capital of Galle with over 70% of the vote.

Analysts note that the NPP has increased its vote share compared to the September presidential election. If this trend continues, the party will surpass the 150-seat mark, achieving an absolute majority in the 225-member parliament. Thursday's election was the first major test for NPP. After voting, Dissanayake said he would be happy to finish short of an absolute majority of 150 seats in the 225-member Parliament.

Polls monitoring groups said the voter turnout out was lower than the high 79% recorded at the presidential election held in September.

The election commission said it anticipated an overall turnout of 65% in the polling concluded in a largely peaceful manner across the country.

While the counting of postal ballots began soon after voting concluded at 4 pm, counting of votes cast on Thursday was set to begin after all ballot boxes were received at the counting centres.

Having failed to secure 50% of the vote at the September 21 presidential election, Dissanayake pleaded for a stronger parliament to enable him to implement his reformist programme. PTI

Goods exports see major rise in Oct, up 17.3% to $39.2 bn

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

THE country's merchandise exports witnessed a significant increase of 17.25%, reaching $39.2 billion in October, making it the strongest month in the last decade.

Meanwhile, the import bill also rose to a all-time high of $66.34 billion, reflecting a 3.9% increase compared to the same month last year. The merchandise trade deficit expanded from a five-month low of $20.8 billion in September to $27.14 billion in October.

"The data showcases a remarkable growth trajectory, driven by strong performances across key sectors such as engineering goods, electronics, and chemicals," said Sunil Barthwal, commerce secretary. Barthwal added that this robust increase not only reflects the effectiveness of India's policy reforms aimed at boosting exports but also underscores the resilience of Indian industries despite global economic challenges.

The 17%-plus growth in exports could due to upcoming Christmas as firms in the developed markets start stocking up inventories for the festival, pointed Barthwal.

In addition, production-linked incentive (PLI) schemes and various trade agreements aimed at facilitating exports, along with enhanced logistics infrastructure, digitisation in trade processes, and increased focus on quality standards have also played pivotal roles in achieving this growth, as per the secretary.

Ten sectors recorded their highest-ever exports in April to October 2024. Leading the growth is the engineering goods sector, which saw exports rise to $67.5 billion from $61.5 billion in 2023 and $62.6 billion in 2022.

Electronics goods followed suit, with exports surging to $19.1 billion in 2024, marking a significant increase from $15.4 billion in 2023 and $12.1 billion in 2022.

The pharmaceuticals sector also showed robust growth, climbing to $17.0 billion from $15.8 billion in 2023 and $14.6 billion in 2022, underscoring India's expanding influence in global health markets, as per the data.

The government also highlighted that in 2001, the USA's imports from India stood at $9.7 billion, representing just 0.9% of its total global imports. However, by 2023, this figure had reached $87.3 billion, making up 2.8% of the USA's imports from the world.

Markets decline for 6th session on FII selling

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BENCHMARK indices tumbled for the sixth straigh day on ThursdaySensex declined by 110 points in a see-saw trade on Thursday amid continued FII selling, disappointing quarterly results and soaring inflation.

The 30-share Sensex dropped 110.64 points or 0.14% to settle at 77,580.31 in a lacklustre trade. The index started on a positive note but lost momentum later due to increased selling. During the day, it dropped 266.14 points or 0.34% to 77,424.81.

Broader NSE Nifty dropped by 26.35 points or 0.11% to close at 23,532.70, extending its losing streak to the sixth day. From the 30-share Sensex pack, Hindustan Unilever, NTPC, Nestle, IndusInd Bank, Power Grid, Adani Ports, Tata Motors and Bajaj Finserv were the major laggards. Reliance Industries, Kotak Mahindra Bank, Tech Mahindra, Mahindra & Mahindra and HDFC Bank were among the gainers.

Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) offloaded equities worth ₹2,502.58 crore on Wednesday, while domestic institutional investors (DIIs) bought shares worth ₹6,145.24 crore, according to exchange data. "The domestic market experienced a lacklustre trading, but some stability was observed throughout the day, from the low. The sustainability of this trend remains uncertain as FIIs continue to be on the selling side. But on a positive note the degree of selling is reducing," Vinod Nair, Head of Research, Geojit Financial Services said.

After a brief positive start driven by gains in HDFC Bank, Reliance, and major IT stocks, both Sensex and Nifty reversed the course as global pressures and persistent foreign investor selling weighed on sentiment, Vikram Kasat, Head - Advisory, PL Capital - Prabhudas Lilladher, said.

Vi in talks with govt over AGR after SC rejected plea

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

VODAFONE IDEA (VIL) is in talks with the government for finding a solution on the issue of adjusted gross revenue (AGR) after the Supreme Court rejected its curative petition on the same. Vodafone Idea CEO Akshaya Moondra, during the Q2 investor call, expressed hope of finding a solution. In September 2024, the Supreme Court rejected 19 petitions filed by 19 telecom service providers, including Bharti Airtel and Vodafone Idea, to recalculate AGR dues.

"The government remains supportive of three private players in markets, and we are engaged with them in finding a solution," said Moondra.

Additionally, Vodafone Idea plans to launch its 5G network in the fourth quarter of this fiscal year. The telco is also in talks with lenders for debt funding and network expansion. The company is optimistic about securing debt funding from its lenders once the government provides clarity on the AGR issue.

"I am personally involved in these discussions, along with the promoters, following equity funding via FPO and preferential issuance to one promoter group," said Moondra.

Moondra also advocated for further tariff hikes to improve the telecom industry in the country. Regarding the impact of the recent tariff hikes, Moondra stated that Vodafone Idea had lost 5.1 million subscribers, many of whom have ported to the state-owned Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited (BSNL).

"Porting out to an operator that has not raised tariffs has increased. We have also seen a slight dip in our 4G subscribers. We have mobile number portability data till October 2024. Post-August, the operator (referring to BSNL) is declining," said Moondra. Meanwhile the debt-ridden telco on Wednesday reported a consolidated loss of ₹7,175.9 crore in the September quarter as against a loss of ₹8,746.6 crore in the same period a year ago.

25% companies pay over 20% of annual profits in royalty to related parties

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

IN a major finding, markets watchdog Sebi has found that as many as a quarter of the listed companies its study analysed has been paying over 20% of their annual profits to their related parties (RPs), while half of them did so at the cost of paying dividends and a tenth of them did so even while making losses.

In a statement on Thursday, the Sebi said its study is based on 233 listed companies across sectors during the decade ending FY23. Some of these companies paid royalty, amounting to under 5% of their turnover to their RPs during the 10-year period from FY14 to FY23.

Some of the other major findings of the study include during this period, there were as many as 1,538 instances of royalty payments within 5% of turnover of the company (which means not requiring majority of minority shareholders' approvals) by 233 listed companies. Of these, 1,353 instances of royalty payments were by listed companies that made net profit and 185 instances of royalty payments to RPs were by companies that made net losses. "Among the profit-making companies paying royalties, one out of four times (25% of the instances), these listed companies paid royalty to RPs exceeding 20% of their net profit. One out of two times to half the instances, listed companies that paid royalty, didn't pay dividend or paid more royalty to RPs than dividend paid to non-RP shareholders," the study said.

"Among the royalty paying companies which have been making met-losses, the study has found that during fiscal 2014 through 2023, there were 185 instances of royalty payments by 63 companies that made net losses and their royalty payment to the RPs stood at ₹1,355 crore. These 10 companies incurred net losses at least for five years while paying royalty of ₹228 crore to their RPs."

Emerging cities see demand for flexible IT talent

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

WHEN it comes to flexi staffing in the IT industry, emerging cities such as Ahmedabad, Coimbatore, Vishakhapatnam, Surat, Kochi, and Nagpur are seeing a growing demand due to various factors including skilled workforce, strategic location and manufacturing base, among others.

Indian Staffing Federation (ISF) on Thursday released the Indian IT Staffing- Sectoral and State Employment Trends Report 2024, and Lohit Bhatia, President of ISF, said Karnataka, Telangana, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and Delhi NCR are the five states that dominate the IT flexi staffing industry in the country. These states have a combined market value of $2.8 billion, which is 57% of the total market value.

He told journalists that with a market value of $1.4 billion, Karnataka alone has the largest IT flexi market size in the country. While the global IT flexi staffing market size is $114.7 billion in FY24, Indian market size is about $4.9 billion (₹40,584 crore) and has a workforce of 5,97,000. Interestingly, IT/ITeS and GCCs (global capability centres) account for 51% of the market value and they also have the highest combined IT flexi staffing workforce of 2,96,000.

When asked about the percentage of flexi staffing in the IT industry, Bhatia said it is 5.5% in IT and ITeS, whereas, GCCs exhibit slightly higher penetration rate at 8.2%. "This is primarily due to the fast pace with which GCCs are being set up in India," he said.

Apart from these two sectors, BFSI & fintech sector has the highest penetration with 17.1%, driven by rising demands for cybersecurity and cloud adoption. The president of ISF also said that companies prefer flexi staffing for niche skills, apart from project-based requirements.

The report highlights that the IT flexi staffing workforce provides higher project cost efficiency of 20-30% and that project-based focus and motivation drive higher output. Also, the majority of companies are engaging IT flexi staffing workforce for 1-2 years projects. Talking about the age group of these employees, he said, "Professionals with 5-10 years experience are in maximum demand."

People in the 25-30 years age bracket are hired the most in IT and GCCs, and IT flexi staffing has the highest women workforce participation at 35% in FY24. Of all cities, Delhi/NCR has the highest women workforce participation rate at 45%.

Uber drivers can record riders' conversation

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

UBER drivers can now record audio if they feel 'uncomfortable' or are concerned about their safety during trips. The recording would be encrypted and not accessible to either the driver or rider. This is part of a slew of driver-centric measures taken by Uber amid stiff competition from rivals like InDrive and Rapido, who charge lower commissions from drivers.

Uber would not access the audio unless the driver chooses to submit it as part of a safety report. "This feature, compliant with India's one-party consent law, is available nationwide. It offers peace of mind in situations where drivers may feel vulnerable during a trip," the US-based ride aggregator said. In yet another move, female drivers can now have the option to choose to accept only female riders, a feature that is particularly useful during late hours. According to the company, this optional feature has already enabled over 21,000 trips. It helps female earners prioritise their safety, drive for longer hours, and boost their earnings.

Ecommerce sector records 12% growth in gross goods value during festive season

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

THE ecommerce sector has recorded a gross merchandise value (GMV) of about $14 billion during this festive season (from September 15 to October 31), which is 12% growth compared to last year's festive period.

The growth was fuelled by resilient consumer spending across categories, including quick commerce, electronics, fashion, beauty and personal care (BPC), home furnishings and groceries, with significant contributions from Tier 2+ cities and increased per-shopper spending, Redseer Strategy Consultants revealed in its analysis of the 2024 festive ecommerce season.

The report said smaller cities showed the highest growth rate in spending, rising to 13% in 2024, and there was a market rise in prepaid transactions which enhanced shopping experience in the smaller towns.

Fashion has emerged as the fastest-growing category, with a 3X growth rise over the BAU (business as usual) months this fiscal. Ethnic wear and accessories drove this growth, particularly in Tier 2+ cities, wherein unbranded ethnic wear, jewellery, and women's accessories gained traction. On the other hand, premium and international brands observed robust sales in Tier 1 markets, the report said. The quick commerce sector also extended its offerings to include electronics and home appliances, meeting festive demand through expanded delivery hours. Non-grocery sales spiked on key festive days, with Delhi, Mumbai and Bengaluru among the top-performing cities.

Over 40 crore gold jewellery items get hallmark in fourth phase, says govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MORE than 40 crore gold jewellery items have received a unique Hallmarking Unique Identification (HUID) in the fourth phase, enhancing consumer trust and transparency in the market, according to the Ministry of Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Administration. The Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) commenced the fourth phase of mandatory hallmarking under the Hallmarking of Gold Jewellery and Gold Artefacts Amendment Order, 2024, starting November 5, 2024.

The fourth phase includes an additional 18 districts where hallmarking centres have been established as part of the Mandatory Hallmarking initiative. With this implementation, the total number of districts now covered under Mandatory Hallmarking has reached 361.

"It is a notable achievement that the proactive measure by the Government of India has triggered over 4 lakh gold items being hallmarked with a unique HUID (Hallmark Unique Identification) number per day," the ministry said. Since the launch of mandatory hallmarking, the number of registered jewellers has increased from 34,647 to 1,94,039, a remarkable rise of over five times. Champions Trophy arrives in Pak for country-wide tour

Even though the ICC is yet to announce the final schedule of the Champions Trophy, it flew the trophy to Pakistan on Thursday for a tour of the country beginning Saturday. According to a PCB official, the trophy tour would begin from Skardu. "The tour will cover major Pakistani cities where the CT matches are set to be played," he said.

SHAMI SHOWS GLIMPSES OF OLD SELF

Pacer impresses with four-fer on comeback in Ranji clash against MP, could fly to Australia should he remain fit

GOMESH S @ Chennai

FOR an X (formerly known as Twitter) account with about 732,000 followers, every post from @BCCIdomestic (the handle of the Indian cricket body that gives updates on domestic cricket) garners a few hundred impressions to maybe a few thousand, especially if it's a video or picture. On Thursday, the post about a record-breaking partnership in the history of the tournament with pictures had received about 14K views as of 9 PM. On any other day, that would have gone down as the most-viewed post from the handle. But Thursday wasn't going to be any other day.

Having taken the field after approximately 359 days since his last professional game, Mohammed Shami was having a ball in Indore. Making a comeback after a long injury lay-off, the veteran India pacer had already bowled ten overs for Bengal on day one of the Ranji Trophy clash against Madhya Pradesh on Wednesday. On Thursday, however, Shami was in his element. He bowled nine overs, gave away 20 runs while returning with four wickets — something that will do the pacer's confidence a world of good. It all happened so fast in the morning that when the BCCI domestic handle posted a highlight package of his spell at about 3 PM, it blew up. In about six hours, the post had more than 133K views — easily the most viral post from the account in a long time. And understandably so. After all, it is the comeback every Indian fan, team member, administrator and stakeholder are eagerly waiting for.

*(MIN 10 WKTS IN OZ SINCE NOV 2014)

Shami was not just the strike pacer for India during the pace pandemic but also one of the most reliable fast bowlers to run in all day. Over the last decade, the Bengal pacer has been one of the cores around which Indian bowling is built on. And at a time when Indian cricket is struggling, a historic home defeat against New Zealand just before the Border-Gavaskar Trophy, Shami making a comeback could augur well for the team's chances Down Under. Shami, after all, has been the second best Indian pacer in Australia, only after Jasprit Bumrah, over the last decade. In the second innings of the match, no Indian has a better record. His second innings strike rate of 44.8 in Australia is only bettered by Kagiso Rabada in the last ten years. Now, it is not just the numbers, the sight of Shami running in around the wicket and delivering the upright seam that moves either way after pitching makes everyone in the dressing room, and the fans, feel better. They know he is there to deliver, as he has time and again. Thursday, Shami showed a glimpse of it from either side of the pitch. His smooth run-up, impeccable release and sideways movement were all there to see as the 34-year-old finished with four wickets for 54 runs. As much as it has put a smile on everyone's face, nothing is certain.

Mohammed Shami marked his return to competitive cricket with a four-fer | PTI

Shami has had a tough time since the ODI World Cup final last year and has been through ankle surgery as well. His long lay-off was supposed to end before the home series against Black Caps but Shami was not ready and India knew better than rushing him back.

In fact, captain Rohit Sharma, after the Bengaluru Test, had said that it would be difficult even for the Australia series. "We don't want to bring undercooked Shami to Australia. We are keeping our fingers crossed," Rohit had said.

Even as Shami was getting ready, the selectors announced a squad without him and the team is already in Perth, preparing for the first Test against Australia on November 22. As things stand, Shami's return is a good sign but the selectors and the medical team will monitor him closely as the pacer takes the field in the second innings against Madhya Pradesh and how he sustains on the field. And if they are satisfied, Shami could fly to Australia and join the team. The good thing for him and the Indian team is that it is a long series and they have a two-day game against Prime Minister XI in Canberra on November 30 before the second Test. Which means, there is no need for them to push the pacer back in unless necessary. One thing can be said for sure though. Should Shami get through the challenges and take the field in Australia, the social media posts featuring him would garner a lot more than 133K views.

NOTES FROM DOWN UNDER

Shastri backs Kohli to prosper

DUBAI: Former India cricket coach Ravi Shastri believes Virat Kohli has the potential to turn around his poor form and prosper in the upcoming Border-Gavaskar series in Australia. Kohli has been going through a rough run over the last few months. But Shastri has warned Australia and said Kohli is back in the country where he loves to bat and score runs. "Well, the King is back in his territory. That's all I will tell them," former India all-rounder Shastri said on The ICC Review.

Sarfaraz doing fine after injury

PERTH: Middle-order batter Sarfaraz Khan was struck on the elbow while batting in the nets during India's practice session at the WACA on Thursday but there was no need for an MRI. A video posted by Fox Cricket showed the Mumbai run-machine holding his right arm as he walked off the nets. He looked in discomfort as he walked back. However, it has been learned that the injury isn't serious and the batter wasn't required to undergo an MRI.

Doping among minors biggest concern in India

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

IMAGINE this. An athlete barely in his or her teens and he or she has started doping. In other words, at a stage when they develop physically and mentally, they are exposed to substances that can hamper growth. What must be distressing is that 14, 15 and 16-year-old athletes figure on the National Anti-Doping Agency's 'list of ineligible athletes'. Doping in the grassroots is indeed a worrying trend.

Going by the NADA figures, the recent list released on 08.11.2024, six players were added to the 16 who had agreed to take "case resolution agreement" through which athletes have been given a reduced sanction, for example three years instead of four for a steroid offence. Out of a total of 182 on the list, 22 are minors, which is about 12 per cent. Out of the 22, 15 were penalized in 2023 and seven in 2024 (the year is yet to get over). The provisionally suspended athletes' list has six minors, but compared to the September list, five new minors have been added in the new list. One minor had figured in September as well (six out of total 117; about 5.1 per cent). That means 11 new minors figure on the list. If we include the two that appear under the "List of sanctioned Athletes by ADDP/ADAP/CAS", then the list of minors testing positive would expand to 13. There are a total of about 35 minors in all three lists.

Of the sports, weightlifting once again tops the chart with 12 minors on the cumulative list, closely followed by athletics with 11. Judokas (3), boxers (3), swimmers (3), wrestler (1), kabaddi (1), canoe (1) and volleyball (1) are part of the infamous list. If this is not alarming enough the choice of banned substance definitely would be. Most of the athletes have been banned or provisionally suspended for using steroids including SARMS LGD 4033 (which is yet to get approval for human use). If steroid usage is bad for seniors, for minors it is detrimental to their growth both physically and mentally. "Doping at grassroot level is very serious from medical point of view," said Ashok Ahuja, former head of department sports science in NIS Patiala, explaining the effect of doping among children. "It is serious because it can affect their cardiac status and lung function that will lead to stunted growth. In case there is a long term usage by them then there can be serious implications like growth of tumours in the later stage of life. It is a concern for all including parents and coaches." The doctor felt that this is happening because there is money in every stage of sports. There are age group events that award athletes with cash and jobs, this has somehow led to them getting the easy way out. Ahuja also felt that it is good to see NADA testing more junior athletes. "But one has to remember that NADA cannot test all athletes so the number of athletes consuming banned substances is very high."

Ahuja, like many experts, felt that blame should go to coaches and parents. Mostly the coaches because a 14 or 15-year-old would not know what a banned substance would be. Interestingly, though NADA too has a provision to ban athletes, there are only one or two coaches who have been penalised so far. "Easy availability of steroids and growth hormones is another reason for such abuse," he said. One 15-year old tested positive for SARMS LGD-4033 (ligandrol), while a 16-year-old tested positive for Metandienone; Trenbolone; Mephentermine. "It has been confirmed that steroids have serious side effects but for a youngster, it is more detrimental," said Ahuja.

Perhaps it's time for authorities to put in place stringent measures to decrease doping among minors.

Snehal, Bakle record highest partnership in Ranji history

AGENCIES @ Porvorim (Goa)

THE duo of Snehal Kauthankar and Kashyap Bakle scored triple centuries and recorded the highest partnership in Ranji Trophy's history, adding 606 runs to help their team hammer Arunachal Pardesh by an innings and 551 runs in their plate group match here on Thursday. While Kauthankar smashed 314 off 215 balls, Bakle blazed away to 300 off just 269 balls to propel Goa to a mammoth 727 for 2 declared and gain a 643-run first-innings lead. Goa then dismissed Arunachal for 92 to complete the win. The visitors had folded for 84 in the first innings.

During their sensational partnership, Kauthankar and Bakle broke rewrote many records. Their unbeaten partnership surpassed the 594-run stand for the third wicket between Maharashtra duo of SM Gugale and AR Bawne against Delhi in 2016. This was only the second instance of two batters recording triple tons in the same innings of a Ranji match. Tamil Nadu's WV Raman and Arjun Kripal Singh had struck 313 and 302 runs, respectively, against Goa in 1989. The 606-run stand is just behind the 624-run alliance between Sri Lanka's Kumar Sangakkara and Mahela Jayawardene in a Test against South Africa in 2006.

Shrijith helps Karnataka take lead

ENS/AGENCIES @ Chennai

KRISHAN Shrijith slammed 110 as Karnataka took a big first innings lead against Uttar Pradesh in Lucknow. Yashovardhan Parantap was the second leading scorer with 55 for Karnataka, who posted 275 in 79.5 overs. The hosts fared better in their second essay as they ended the day on 78/1 with Madhav Kaushik and captain Aryan Juyal unbeaten on 33 and 35 runs, respectively.

Kamboj's record 8/48

ROHTAK: Haryana seamer Anshul Kamboj produced a devastating spell to take all eight wickets as Kerala collapsed to 285/8 in Rohtak. The 23-year-old from Karnal, who had picked up two wickets on the opening day, continued his spectacular run, removing overnight batters Akshay Chandran (59) and Sachin Baby (52) after they resumed at 138/2. Jalaj Sexena became Kamboj's next victim but Mohammed Azharuddeen provided some resistance with a knock of 53 while adding 74 runs with Sachin baby. However, Kamboj then returned to get rid of both the batters along with MD Nidheesh before bad light forced an early end to the day's play with Shoun Roger (37) and Basil Thampi (4) at the crease.

Kushagra hits ton

NEW DELHI: Promising wicketkeeper-batter Kumar Kushagra struck a breezy unbeaten 133 to steer Jharkhand to 356 for 9 on the second day of their Group D match against Delhi. Courtesy Kushagra's aggressive ton, Jharkhand added 220 runs for the loss of six wickets from 70 overs played on Day 2 at the Arun Jaitley Stadium. The visitors had begun the day at 136 for 3. With just two days left in the match, Jharkhand have placed themselves in a strong position in the match.

Tamil Nadu in command

AHMEDABAD: Half-centuries by Shahrukh Khan (86), N Jagadeesan (56) and C Andre Siddarth (78) came in handy for Tamil Nadu to bag a lead of 95 runs over Railways. Tamil Nadu were 324 for 6 in 93 overs at stumps with Mohamed Ali batting on 37 and Ajith Ram giving him company on 6 runs.

Odisha secure crucial lead

CUTTACK: Odisha squandered advantage but opener Swastik Samal made sure they take a crucial 38-run first innings lead in their Ranji Trophy match against Maharashtra in Cuttack on Thursday. In reply to Maharashtra's 162, Odisha were 99/1 on Day 1 and were in sight of a good lead. Rajneesh Gurbai (3/38) and Ramakrishna Ghosh 3/50), however, had some other plans as they bowled out the hosts for 200.

Andhra batter start strong

HYDERABAD: Andhra bowlers led by Tripurana Vijay (5/118) wrested back the control as they bowled out hosts Hyderabad for 301 in their match. Overnight centurion Tanmay Agarwal was the last wicket to fall on 159. The visitors were 168/2 in 58 overs at stumps. Shaik Rasheed was unbeaten on 79 with Karan Shinde by his side on 41.

Chance for India to seal series

In the last match of the tour, hosts South Africa will be looking to draw the T20I series against India. A look...

THE NEXT-GEN IS HERE

Even though the transition came full circle when India won the T20 World Cup in Barbados, this series makes one feel like the next generation is here. From Abhishek Sharma to Tilak Varma everyone have tried to make the most of the chance and now, it is all the more difficult for anyone to break into.

SA'S DYNAMIC LINE-UP

Results may not reflect it but this South African side is one of the most dynamic T20I set-ups in the world. From openers at the top till Marco Jansen at seven, theirs is a team filled with stars and they are going to get only stronger.

RUN-FEST ON CARDS

Four of the last five games at the venue have been high-scoring. Friday might be no different. However, as is often the case, a big total in the first innings could lead to a collapse in the second with the team chasing falling short by a big margin.

Carlsen takes sole lead in Tata Chess

KOLKATA: World No. 1 Magnus Carlsen recorded a flawless performance, securing victories against S L Narayanan, Wesley So and Arjun Erigaisi, to take the sole lead at the Tata Steel Chess India Rapid Tournament here on Thursday. Starting the day just half a point behind overnight leader Nodirbek Abdusattorov, the Norwegian's masterful play elevated him to the top of the leaderboard with a commanding five points out of a possible six in the 'Open' section. Russia's Aleksandra Goryachkina secured the sole lead following three victories on day two in women's section.

Deepika helps India thrash Thailand

AGENCIES @ Rajgir (Bihar)

YOUNG striker Deepika slammed five goals as defending champions India thrashed minnows Thailand 13-0 to virtually assure a semifinal berth at the women's Asian Champions Trophy hockey tournament here on Thursday.

It was a completely one-sided match as the Indians found the net at will, with Thailand failing to take a single shot at the opposition goal. Deepika (3rd, 19th, 43rd 45th, 45th minutes) found the net five times, while Preeti Dubey (9th, 40th), Lalremsiami (12, 56th) and Manisha Chauhan (55th, 58th) scored a brace each. Beauty Dung Dung (30th) and Navneet Kaur (53rd) were the other goal getters for India who registered their third consecutive win in the round-robin league stage. India had earlier defeated Malaysia 4-0 before eking out a close 3-2 win over South Korea. The Indians will next play Olympic silver medallists China on Saturday.

India players celebrate their win | HI

India are now in the second spot in the standings with nine points, the same as China who, however, are on the top on the basis of a better goal difference. China have a goal difference of + 21 as against +18 of India. The top four teams out of six at the end of round-robin league stage will qualify for the semifinals. It was complete domination from India from start to finish as they continuously toyed with the Thai defence, which looked clueless against the home team's relentless attacks. The Indians also improved on the penalty corner front, converting five out of 12 PCs they secured in the match. In other matches of the day, Malaysia beat Korea 2-1 while China defeated Japan by the same margin.

ATP FINALS

Sinner qualifies for semis, Fritz wait continues

AGENCIES @ Turin (Italy)

TOP-RANKED Jannik Sinner became the first player to advance to the semifinals at the ATP Finals on Thursday. Sinner was assured of a spot in the last four after U.S. Open finalist Taylor Fritz beat Alex de Minaur 5-7, 6-4, 6-3 in their group.

Sinner won his opening two matches and plays Daniil Medvedev later. Last year, Sinner lost the final to Novak Djokovic, who pulled out injured this year. Fritz also has two wins and has a chance of advancing, while Medvedev is still in contention and could get to two wins by beating Sinner. De Minaur was mathematically eliminated without any wins in his finals debut.

Jannik Sinner became the first player to qualify for semifinals at the ATP Finals | AFP

The top two finishers in each group advance to the semifinals. The Sinner-Medvedev match will determine whether the other qualifier is Fritz or Medvedev.

"If I don't get through it's going to be tough because I did play two very good matches and lost to the best player in the world," Fritz said of his defeat to Sinner. "But if that happens I'm happy with my week and I'll leave with my head held high. But I'll definitely be checking in on the score tonight." Alexander Zverev leads the other group ahead of Casper Ruud, Carlos Alcaraz and Andrey Rublev.

Kannada Chaluvali
A JOURNEY THROUGH TIME

Every year on November 1, Karnataka bursts into vibrant celebration for Kannada Rajyotsava, a day that commemorates the unification of Kannada-speaking regions into a single state in 1956. This year, as the state marks its 69th Rajyotsava, the festivities promised to reflect the rich heritage and cultural pride of the Kannadiga community, and it did so, magnificantly. The celebrations featured a variety of events, culminating in the prestigious Rajyotsava Awards, which honoured individuals who made significant contributions to Kannada culture and society.

The roots of Karnataka's formation run deep, extending well before 1956. Historically, Kannada-speaking territories were fragmented across multiple states, including Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Kerala, and Tamil Nadu. The Ekikarana Movement emerged as a powerful force advocating for linguistic unity, mobilising communities and igniting political action. This movement paved the way for the creation of a unified state, culminating in key milestones such as the establishment of Mysore State in 1947 and the enactment of the States Reorganisation Act in 1956, which officially formed a Kannada-speaking state. In 1973, Mysore State was renamed Karnataka, solidifying its identity.

Since its inception, Karnataka has experienced remarkable growth, both economically and culturally. Bengaluru has transformed into a global IT hub, significantly contributing to India's technology landscape. Recent statistics highlight the state's impressive economic trajectory; Karnataka's Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP) grew by 10.2% in 2023-24, surpassing the national growth rate of 8.2%. This growth has continued despite challenges such as drought and global economic downturns. Over the decades, the state's contribution to India's GDP has increased significantly, reflecting a robust economic evolution.

The state's share of India's GDP increased from 5.4% in 1960-61 to approximately 8.2% in 2023-24, reflecting a growth of over 51% in five decades.

Karnataka's diverse economy is characterised by its thriving sectors. The information technology sector, particularly in Bengaluru—often referred to as the "Silicon Valley of India"—is home to numerous tech companies and startups. Despite rapid urbanisation, agriculture remains a vital part of the state's economy, ensuring food security and sustaining livelihoods. Manufacturing and services have also seen substantial growth, further diversifying Karnataka's economic base and enhancing its resilience.

As Karnataka looks to the future, several trends are poised to shape its path in the coming years. Continued investment in technology and innovation will likely reinforce Bengaluru's status as a global tech leader. Simultaneously, with a growing awareness of environmental issues, there is a strong push towards sustainable practices in both agriculture and urban planning. A renewed emphasis on education and vocational training will prepare the workforce for emerging industries, while efforts to preserve and promote the Kannada language and culture will become increasingly vital in an ever-globalising world.

As Karnataka celebrates its 69th Rajyotsava in 2024, it reflects on a rich history marked by a struggle for unity and identity, while simultaneously looking forward to a future filled with innovation and cultural pride. The state's journey from its formation in 1956 to its current status as an economic powerhouse illustrates the resilience and adaptability of its people in a constantly changing world. The spirit of Kannada Rajyotsava continues to inspire generations, honouring their past while embracing the future with optimism and hope.

Kannada Chaluvali
A JOURNEY THROUGH TIME

From Mysore to KARNATAKA

The roots of Karnataka Rajyotsava can be traced back to the Karnataka Ekikarana Movement, initiated by Aluru Venkata Rao in 1905. This movement aimed to unify all Kannada-speaking regions, which were then scattered across various states including Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Kerala, and Tamil Nadu. The movement gained momentum after India became a republic in 1950, leading to the reorganisation of states based on linguistic lines.

On November 1, 1956, the States Reorganisation Act came into effect, merging several Kannada-speaking regions with the existing Mysore State to form a new entity initially named Mysore. This unification included areas from the erstwhile princely state of Mysore as well as regions from the Bombay and Madras presidencies.

The initial resistance to renaming Mysore State stemmed from its historical significance as a princely state. However, growing discontent among residents of North Karnataka led to persistent demands for a name that reflected their identity. After years of activism and legislative debate, on November 1, 1973, the state was officially renamed Karnataka through the Mysore State (Alteration of Name) Act.

The Thought Process for a Separate State

The idea for a separate state emerged from cultural and linguistic unity among Kannada speakers. The Karnataka Ekikarana Movement highlighted grievances regarding political representation and cultural recognition. Activists argued that a unified state would better serve the interests of Kannada speakers and promote their language and culture.

Celebration of Karnataka Rajyotsava

Karnataka Rajyotsava is celebrated with great fervor across the state, featuring parades, cultural programs, and flag hoisting ceremonies. The Karnataka state flag, characterised by its red and yellow colors, symbolises bravery and harmony among its people. Schools, colleges, and government institutions participate actively in these celebrations, reinforcing the significance of Kannada identity.

In recent years, government officials have emphasised the importance of celebrating this day to foster unity and pride among Kannadigas. For instance, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar mandated that all institutions hoist the Kannada flag on November 1 to honor this historic occasion.

Renaming & Compelling Arguments

The renaming of Mysore to Karnataka on November 1, 1973, was driven by several compelling arguments that reflected the aspirations and sentiments of the Kannada-speaking population. Here are the main arguments that supported this significant change:

Cultural and Linguistic Identity

The name "Karnataka" had historical roots that predated the Mysore princely state. Proponents of the name argued that it represented a broader cultural and linguistic identity encompassing all Kannada-speaking regions. The Karnataka Ekikarana movement, which sought the unification of these regions, had long envisioned a state named Karnataka, as evidenced by historical references in literature and inscriptions dating back to the Vijayanagara Empire, which was known as "Karnataka Desha".

Inclusivity and Representation

Supporters emphasised that renaming the state to Karnataka would promote inclusivity among its diverse regions. The original name "Mysore" was associated primarily with the old Mysore region, which led to feelings of exclusion among other Kannada-speaking areas that were economically and culturally distinct. By adopting the name Karnataka, the state could better reflect its diverse heritage and ensure equitable representation for all regions.

Political Will and Democratic Sentiment

The push for renaming gained momentum through political advocacy and public sentiment. Chief Minister D. Devaraj Urs, initially opposed to the change, eventually recognised the overwhelming support from the people for a name that resonated with their identity. His eventual endorsement of the name change during a Legislative Assembly session was framed as a democratic response to the majority's wishes. This shift highlighted a growing political will to acknowledge and embrace the state's linguistic unity.

Historical Legacy and Recognition

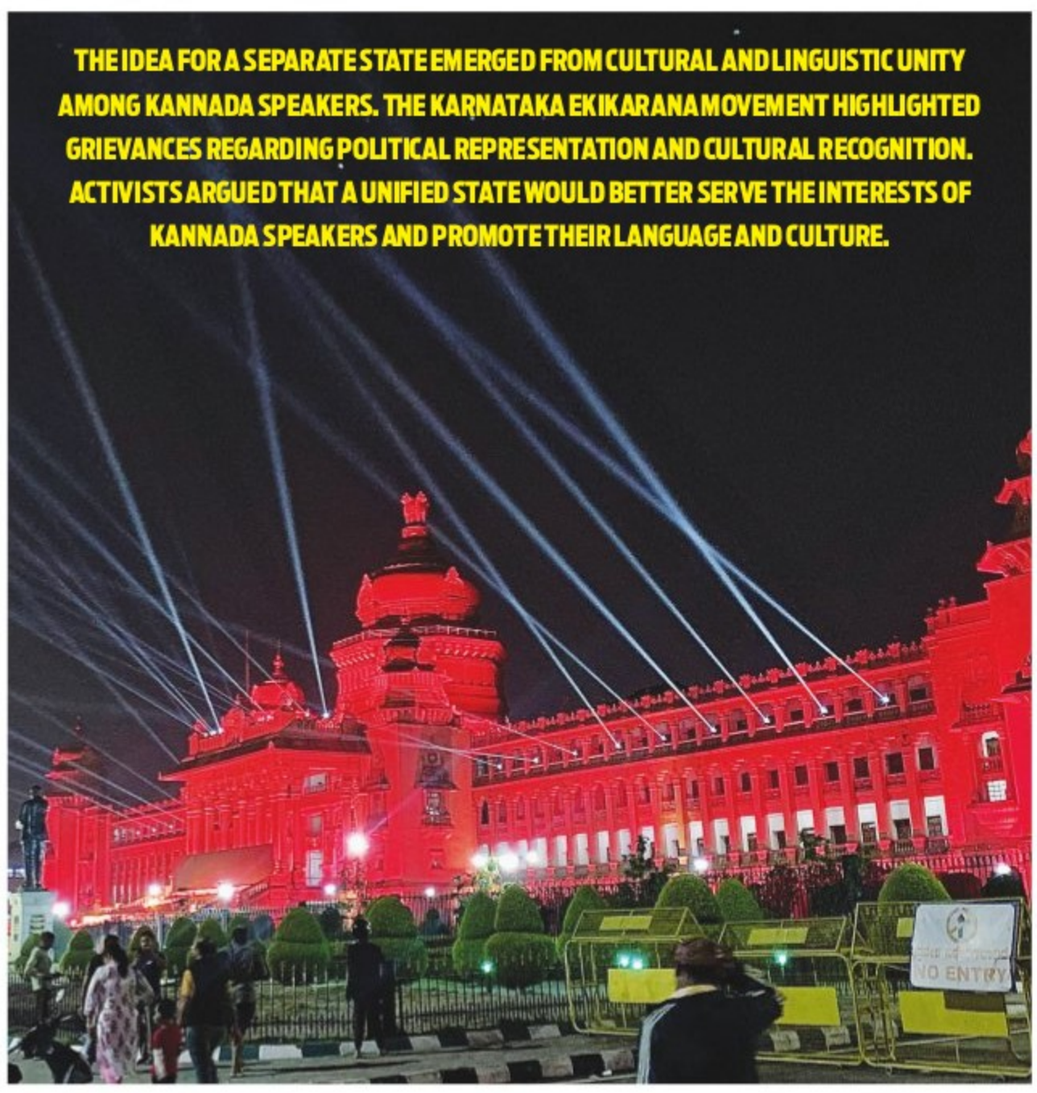
Advocates argued that while Mysore had historical significance as a princely state, it was essential to honour the legacy of all Kannada-speaking regions. The name Karnataka would not only pay homage to this collective history but also align with the vision set forth during the unification discussions in 1956, which had initially proposed Karnataka as the name for the newly formed state.

Overcoming Past Resistance

There was considerable resistance to renaming due to nostalgia for Mysore's royal heritage and fears about economic disparities between regions.

However, proponents countered these arguments by stressing that a unified Karnataka would enhance political power distribution and foster economic development across all areas rather than creating divisions based on historical affiliations.

THE IDEA FOR A SEPARATE STATE EMERGED FROM CULTURAL AND LINGUISTIC UNITY AMONG KANNADA SPEAKERS. THE KARNATAKA EKIKARANA MOVEMENT HIGHLIGHTED GRIEVANCES REGARDING POLITICAL REPRESENTATION AND CULTURAL RECOGNITION. ACTIVISTS ARGUED THAT A UNIFIED STATE WOULD BETTER SERVE THE INTERESTS OF KANNADA SPEAKERS AND PROMOTE THEIR LANGUAGE AND CULTURE.



Key Milestones of Renaming Mysore to Karnataka

The renaming of Mysore to Karnataka was a significant event in the state's history, marked by various milestones that reflect the political and cultural evolution of the region. Here are the key milestones in this process

Formation of Mysore State (1956)
On November 1, 1956, the unified Mysore State was established following the States Reorganisation Act, which aimed to consolidate Kannada-speaking regions. However, the name "Mysore" was met with dissatisfaction among many Kannadigas outside the Mysore region, who felt it did not represent their identity or heritage adequately.

Initial Proposals for Renaming (1957 & 1966)
The first formal proposal to rename Mysore State to Karnataka was introduced by legislator Andanappa Doddameti in 1957. Although it faced opposition, this marked the beginning of legislative efforts to change the name. A similar resolution was reintroduced in 1966 but also failed to pass.

Cultural Mobilisation and Kannada Movement (1960s)
Throughout the 1960s, Bangalore emerged as a hub for the Kannada movement, with significant cultural events like the Kannada Sahitya Sammelana rallying public support for a name change. The first Karnataka Rajyotsava celebration took place on November 1, 1963, further solidifying the association of Kannada identity with the name Karnataka.

Political Developments and Growing Support
The Mahajan Commission Report in 1967 and rising anti-South Indian sentiments from groups like Shiv Sena added urgency to the demand for renaming. The political landscape shifted as non-Mysorean lawmakers began to form a majority in the assembly, fostering momentum for change.

Resolution Passed in Assembly (July 1972)
On July 27, 1972, under Chief Minister D. Devaraj Urs, a resolution to rename Mysore State as Karnataka was passed unanimously in the Legislative Assembly. This moment represented a significant turning point, showcasing a consensus that had been built over years of advocacy and public support.

Parliamentary Approval (August 1973) Following the assembly's resolution, Parliament enacted the Mysore State (Alteration of Name) Act on August 21, 1973. This legislative approval was crucial for formalising the name change at the national level.

Official Renaming Ceremony (November 1, 1973)
The official renaming took place on November 1, 1973. Chief Minister D. Devaraj Urs unveiled a granite plaque at Kanteerava Stadium in Bangalore during grand celebrations attended by thousands. This event symbolised not only a new name but also a fulfillment of long-held aspirations among Kannada speakers.

Evolution

Karnataka's history since its unification in 1956 is marked by significant milestones that reflect its cultural, political, and economic evolution. Here are the key events that have shaped the state:

Landmark Events that Shaped Karnataka's Legacy

■ Formation of Mysore State (1956)
On November 1, 1956, the States Reorganisation Act led to the unification of Kannada-speaking regions into Mysore State, fulfilling a long-standing demand for linguistic unity. This act reorganised state boundaries based on language and culture, allowing for a cohesive identity for Kannadigas.

■ Renaming to Karnataka (1973)
The state was renamed from Mysore to Karnataka on November 1, 1973, under Chief Minister Devaraj Urs. This change was significant as it aligned the state's name with its linguistic heritage and cultural identity.

■ Hyderabad-Karnataka Liberation (1948)
Prior to the formal unification in 1956, parts of Karnataka were under the rule of the Nizam of Hyderabad. The liberation of this region on September 17, 1948, marked an important step towards complete integration into India and was later recognised as Hyderabad-Karnataka Liberation Day.

■ Establishment of Kannada as an Official Language
In 1963, Kannada was declared the official language of Karnataka, further solidifying the cultural identity of the state and promoting its literature and arts.

■ Economic Liberalisation (1991)
The economic reforms initiated in India in 1991 had a profound impact on Karnataka, particularly in Bengaluru, which emerged as a major hub for information technology and software services. This transformation positioned the state as a leader in India's IT sector.

■ Formation of New Districts
Over the years, several new districts have been formed to improve administrative efficiency and governance. Notable examples include the creation of Chikkaballapur and Ramnagara districts in 2007.

■ Global Recognition as an IT Hub
By the late 1990s and early 2000s, Bengaluru gained international acclaim as "Silicon Valley of India," attracting global tech companies and startups, significantly contributing to the state's economy.

■ Cultural Renaissance
The late 20th century saw a revival of interest in Kannada literature and arts, with numerous literary festivals and cultural events promoting local talents and traditions.

■ Recent Political Developments
The political landscape has evolved with various parties vying for power, reflecting diverse interests within the state. Recent elections have seen significant shifts in political alliances and governance strategies.

Karnataka's journey since its unification has been characterised by a blend of cultural pride, economic growth, and political evolution. The state's ability to adapt to changing circumstances while preserving its rich heritage continues to define its identity as it moves forward into the future.

How Ekikarana Sparked the Name Change

The Karnataka Ekikarana movement played a crucial role in influencing the renaming of Mysore to Karnataka, culminating in the official change on November 1, 1973. Here are the key aspects of how this movement shaped the transition:

Foundation of the Movement

The Karnataka Ekikarana movement, which sought the unification of Kannada-speaking regions, was initiated in the early 20th century. It gained momentum after India's independence in 1947, advocating for a separate state that would consolidate all Kannada-speaking areas, which were previously divided among various states and administrative units. The movement's roots can be traced back to cultural and linguistic aspirations, as leaders like Aluru Venkata Rao emphasised the need for a unified identity for Kannadigas.

Political Mobilisation and Advocacy

As the movement progressed, it galvanised support across various segments of society, including politicians, writers, and activists. Their efforts included proposing resolutions and mobilising public opinion to highlight the discontent with the name "Mysore," which many felt did not represent the entirety of Kannada culture and heritage.

Legislative Efforts

Despite the establishment of Mysore State in 1956, which included most Kannada-speaking regions, there was significant disappointment that it was not named Karnataka. This sentiment fueled ongoing legislative efforts to change the name. Proposals were repeatedly tabled in the Legislative Assembly throughout the late 1950s and into the 1970s. A landmark moment occurred on July 27, 1972, when a unanimous resolution to rename Mysore to Karnataka was passed in the assembly, reflecting a significant political consensus that had been built over years of advocacy.

Cultural Significance

The demand for renaming was not merely a political issue; it was deeply tied to cultural identity. The name "Karnataka" was seen as a symbol of pride and unity among Kannada speakers, representing their historical legacy and cultural richness. Leaders from various backgrounds argued that adopting this name would honor their ancient traditions and foster a sense of belonging among all Kannadigas.

Final Approval and Transition

The resolution passed in 1972 set in motion a series of approvals required for the name change at both state and national levels. The Parliament enacted the Mysore State (Alteration of Name) Act on August 21, 1973, leading to the official renaming on November 1 of that year. This transition marked a significant victory for the Karnataka Ekikarana movement and its supporters, fulfilling decades of aspirations for a united Kannada identity.

Thus, the Karnataka Ekikarana movement significantly influenced the renaming of Mysore by mobilising public support, fostering political advocacy, and emphasising cultural identity—all culminating in a historic legislative victory that reshaped the state's identity as Karnataka.

A JOURNEY THROUGH TIME

TECH TRANSFORMATION

Since the unification of Karnataka in 1956, the state has moved forward with remarkable resolve, continuously evolving across multiple fronts. One of its most notable transformations has been in the Information Technology sector. Beginning in the early 1980s, Karnataka, led by Bengaluru, has become a global tech hub, driving economic growth, nurturing innovation, and solidifying its position as a leader in India's digital economy.

The growth of the Information Technology (IT) sector in Karnataka, particularly in Bengaluru, is a remarkable story of transformation from a traditional economy to a modern tech hub. The journey began in the early 1980s with the establishment of Texas Instruments (TI) in Bangalore, which marked the entry of multinational corporations into the Indian IT landscape.

In 1982, Texas Instruments became the first multinational IT company to set up operations in Bangalore. Under the leadership of C. Valliappa, TI sought a location for its overseas development center after facing challenges in Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu. The Karnataka government, led by Chief Minister Gundu Rao, provided the necessary support by granting land near HAL Airport, facilitating TI's establishment of a research and development facility.

This pivotal moment laid the groundwork for the burgeoning IT sector in Karnataka. The arrival of TI attracted other technology firms, creating a cluster effect that encouraged further investment and innovation. As TI established its operations, it also initiated a demand for skilled labor, leading to an influx of educational institutions focused on engineering and technology.

Since then, Karnataka has become a hub for software development, IT services, and technology startups. With a vibrant ecosystem that includes major global corporations and thousands of startups, Karnataka's IT sector has emerged as one of the most dynamic in India.

Contribution to Economy

The IT sector accounts for approximately 28% of Karnataka's Gross State Value Added (GSVA) and has been a major driver of economic growth. It attracts significant foreign direct investment (FDI) and contributes substantially to employment generation, with over 4 million people employed in this sector across more than 1,400 IT firms.

Growth of the IT Sector in Karnataka: 1990s to 2024

The Information Technology (IT) sector in Karnataka, particularly in Bengaluru, has experienced remarkable growth since the 1990s. This journey has been characterised by strategic government policies, the establishment of key companies, and a thriving ecosystem that has positioned Karnataka as a global technology hub.

1990s: The Foundation Years

The 1990s marked the beginning of significant transformation for Karnataka's IT landscape:

Economic Liberalisation: The liberalisation of the Indian economy in 1991 opened doors for foreign investment and technology transfer. This was pivotal for the IT sector as it attracted multinational corporations.

Government Initiatives: The Karnataka government introduced its first IT policy in 1992, which aimed to create a conducive environment for IT companies. This included tax incentives and infrastructure development.

Emergence of Key Players: Companies like Infosys and Wipro began to gain prominence during this decade. Infosys, founded in 1981, went public in 1993, marking a significant milestone in its growth.

Software Technology Parks of India (STPI): Established in 1991, STPI provided necessary infrastructure and support for software companies, facilitating their growth and export capabilities.

2000s: Rapid Expansion

The early 2000s saw exponential growth in the IT sector:

Booming Exports: By 2001, Karnataka had become a leading state in software exports. The state accounted for a significant portion of India's total IT exports, with Bengaluru emerging as the country's IT capital.

Infrastructure Development: The establishment of dedicated IT parks and special economic zones (SEZs) attracted numerous companies. Notable projects included the International Tech Park Bangalore (ITPB) and Electronic City.

Global Recognition: Bengaluru gained recognition as the "Silicon Valley of India," attracting global tech giants such as IBM, Microsoft, and Google to set up operations.

Employment Generation: The sector generated millions of jobs, with IT firms employing over a million professionals by the end of the decade.

2010s: Maturity and Diversification

The 2010s marked a period of maturity for Karnataka's IT sector:

Diversification into Startups: The decade saw a surge in startups across various domains including e-commerce, fintech, and health tech. Bengaluru became one of the top startup ecosystems globally.

Investment in Innovation: Increased investment in research and development led to innovations in artificial intelligence (AI), machine learning (ML), and data analytics.

Skill Development Initiatives: The government launched several initiatives to enhance skill development among graduates to meet industry demands. Institutions like NASSCOM played a crucial role in this regard.

Continued Growth in Exports: By 2018-19, Karnataka's software exports reached Rs. 1.69 lakh crore ($24 billion), accounting for approximately 38% of India's total IT exports.

2020 to 2024: Resilience and Future Prospects

The recent years have been marked by resilience amid global challenges:

Impact of COVID-19: The pandemic accelerated digital transformation across industries. Companies adapted quickly to remote work models, further solidifying the importance of technology.

Record Exports: In FY 2023, Karnataka's IT exports crossed Rs. 3 lakh crore ($36 billion), accounting for about 42% of India's total IT exports. This reflects a year-on-year growth rate of approximately 27%.

Focus on Tier II Cities: The government initiated programmes to promote IT development beyond Bengaluru, targeting cities like Mysuru, Hubballi, and Mangalore for new tech hubs.

Sustainability Initiatives: There is an increasing focus on sustainable technology solutions and green practices within the industry as part of broader environmental goals.

The growth of the IT sector in Karnataka from the 1990s to 2024 illustrates a remarkable journey characterised by strategic initiatives, robust infrastructure development, and an entrepreneurial spirit. As Bengaluru continues to thrive as a global technology hub, its influence on both national and international stages remains profound. The state's proactive approach towards innovation and skill development positions it well for future advancements in technology.

Focus on Digital Economy: The Karnataka IT Policy 2020-2025 aims for the state's IT industry to contribute approximately 30% to India's goal of a trillion-dollar digital economy. This strategic focus will drive investments in digital infrastructure, including high-speed internet connectivity and technology parks across the state, particularly in rural areas.

Sustainability and Green Technologies: With increasing awareness about climate change and sustainability, there is likely to be a growing emphasis on green technologies within the IT sector. Companies are expected to adopt sustainable practices and develop solutions that address environmental challenges.

Cybersecurity Enhancements: As digital transformation accelerates, so does the need for robust cybersecurity measures. Karnataka's government has introduced a Cybersecurity Policy aimed at fortifying the state's digital defenses. By 2025, businesses will likely invest more heavily in cybersecurity solutions to protect sensitive data and maintain trust among consumers.

Skill Development and Talent Acquisition: To meet the demands of evolving technologies, there will be an increased focus on skill development initiatives aimed at upskilling professionals in areas such as AI, data analytics, and cybersecurity.

Expansion Beyond Bengaluru: While Bengaluru remains the epicenter of Karnataka's IT boom, there is a growing trend towards developing IT hubs in Tier-II and Tier-III cities. The government's policies aim to promote balanced regional growth by establishing technology parks and enhancing infrastructure outside Bengaluru, thereby alleviating pressure on metropolitan areas while fostering local economies.

BIOTECH BOOM

Karnataka has become a global biotech leader since the 1990s, driven by strategic policies, academic institutions, and a thriving startup ecosystem. The sector, valued at $27.1 billion in 2022, is poised for continued growth, with emerging technologies and sustainability trends shaping its future.

Karnataka has emerged as a powerhouse in the biotechnology sector, establishing itself as a global leader in research, development, and innovation since the late 1990s. This article explores the historical background of biotechnology growth in Karnataka, its current economic contributions, and future trends anticipated to drive the sector by 2025.

Early Developments (Pre-1990s)

Biotechnology's roots in Karnataka can be traced back to the early 1970s when academic institutions began exploring genetic engineering and microbiology. However, it wasn't until the late 1980s and early 1990s that significant strides were made, largely due to advancements in molecular biology and genetic engineering. The establishment of institutions like the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) and National Centre for Biological Sciences (NCBS) laid a strong foundation for research.

The IT Boom and Its Impact (1990s)

The liberalization of India's economy in the early 1990s spurred growth across various sectors, including biotechnology. Karnataka's burgeoning IT sector provided a conducive environment for biotech startups by fostering an ecosystem of innovation and entrepreneurship. The state government began to recognize biotechnology as a critical area for economic development, leading to increased funding and support for research initiatives.

Flourishing Biotech Sector (Late 1990s - 2000s)

By the late 1990s, Karnataka had positioned itself as the "Biotechnology Capital of India." The establishment of Biocon in 1978 marked a significant milestone; it became one of India's largest biopharmaceutical companies. The state saw a surge in biotech firms specialising in pharmaceuticals, agricultural biotech, and industrial biotechnology. Government initiatives, such as the establishment of biotech parks and incubators, further fueled this growth.

Economic Contribution of Biotechnology

As of 2022, Karnataka's bioeconomy was valued at approximately $27.1 billion, reflecting its critical role in the state's economy. The sector has shown resilience and adaptability, growing by 10.7% from 2022 to 2023 despite global economic challenges. Key areas contributing to this growth include:

- Biopharmaceuticals: This segment remains a frontrunner within Karnataka's bioeconomy, driven by research and development in drug discovery and production.
- Bio-agriculture: Innovations in genetically modified crops and sustainable agricultural practices have bolstered this sector.
- Bioservices: Services related to biomanufacturing and contract research organisations have expanded rapidly.

Trends Driving Biotechnology Growth by 2025

Looking ahead to 2025, several trends are expected to shape the future of biotechnology in Karnataka:

Government Policy Support

The recently unveiled Karnataka Biotechnology Policy 2024-2029 aims to solidify the state's position as a global leader by targeting a market value of $100 billion by 2030. Key initiatives include:

- Strengthening biotech education through skill development programs.
- Streamlining regulations to facilitate business operations.
- Supporting biomanufacturing aligned with health and climate goals.

Focus on Emerging Technologies

The policy emphasises emerging areas such as:

- Synthetic Biology: Innovations in bioengineering will enhance product development.
- AI/ML Applications: Integrating artificial intelligence into biotechnology will optimize research processes and enhance data analysis capabilities.
- Cell and Gene Therapies: Advancements in genomic editing technologies are expected to revolutionise treatment options for rare diseases.

Investment in Infrastructure

The establishment of high-tech biotech clusters is anticipated to attract investment from both domestic and international firms. These clusters will provide essential facilities for startups and established companies alike.

Increased Collaboration with Academia

Partnerships between industry players and academic institutions will foster innovation through collaborative research projects, enhancing knowledge transfer and commercialization efforts.

Sustainable Practices

With growing global emphasis on sustainability, Karnataka's biotech sector is likely to focus on eco-friendly practices, such as biofuels from waste materials and sustainable agricultural solutions.

Karnataka's biotechnology sector has witnessed significant growth since the late 1990s, driven by strategic government policies, robust infrastructure, and a vibrant ecosystem of startups and research institutions. As it moves toward ambitious targets for 2030, continued investment in emerging technologies and sustainable practices will be crucial for maintaining its leadership position within India's bio-economy. The state's commitment to fostering innovation ensures that it remains at the forefront of global biotechnology developments well into the future.

Karnataka has evolved into India's aerospace and defense hub, driving innovation, manufacturing, and research, with strong growth projected through 2025.

TAKING FLIGHT

Karnataka has played a pivotal role in the growth of India's aerospace and defense sectors since the establishment of Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) in 1940. Over the decades, the state has developed a robust ecosystem that supports both civilian and military aerospace manufacturing, making it a global hub for aerospace innovation.

Early Foundations (1940s - 1960s)

The journey of Karnataka's aerospace industry began with the founding of HAL in Bengaluru, which was established by Walchand Hirachand. Initially focused on aircraft manufacturing, HAL produced its first aircraft, the Harlow PC-5, in 1942. The establishment of the National Aerospace Laboratories (NAL) in 1960 further solidified Karnataka's position in aerospace research and development.

Growth and Expansion (1970s - 1990s)

During this period, Karnataka witnessed significant advancements in aerospace technology. The Aeronautical Development Agency (ADA) was formed in 1984 to spearhead the development of indigenous aircraft, including the Light Combat Aircraft (LCA). The state's strategic location and concentration of research institutions attracted investments from both domestic and international players.

Emergence as a Hub (2000s - 2024)

By the early 2000s, Karnataka had firmly established itself as the "Aerospace Capital of India." The state became home to over 25% of India's aircraft and spacecraft industry, with HAL leading the way in manufacturing military aircraft and helicopters. Karnataka accounts for approximately 67% of all defense aircraft manufacturing in India and contributes over 65% to the country's aerospace exports. The establishment of various aerospace parks and special economic zones (SEZs), such as the one at Belagavi, has further enhanced its manufacturing capabilities.

Strategic Importance

Karnataka's strategic importance in aerospace and defense is underscored by its robust infrastructure, skilled workforce, and presence of major public sector undertakings like HAL. The state is also home to several private players and small-to-medium enterprises (SMEs) that contribute significantly to niche subcontracting work within the industry. This ecosystem fosters innovation and collaboration among various stakeholders, including research institutions like ISRO and DRDO.

Economic Contributions

As of 2024, Karnataka's aerospace and defense sector has become a cornerstone of its economy. The industry not only generates substantial revenue but also creates thousands of jobs across various skill levels. The government's commitment to developing this sector is evident through initiatives like the Karnataka Aerospace and Defence Policy 2022-2027, which aims to attract Rs. 45,000 crore in investments over five years while promoting indigenous technologies.

Future Trends Driving Growth by 2025

Looking ahead to 2025, several trends are expected to shape Karnataka's aerospace and defense landscape:

Increased Investment

The state's government aims to attract significant foreign direct investment (FDI) by offering incentives under its aerospace policy. This influx of capital will enhance research capabilities and expand production facilities.

Focus on Indigenous Development

With an emphasis on self-reliance, there will be a concerted effort to develop indigenous technologies for military applications. Initiatives like "Make in India" will drive local manufacturing capabilities while reducing dependency on foreign suppliers.

Technological Advancements

Advancements in areas such as artificial intelligence (AI), machine learning (ML), and automation will play a crucial role in enhancing production efficiency and innovation within the sector. Companies will increasingly adopt smart manufacturing practices to remain competitive.

Collaboration with Global Players

Partnerships with international aerospace firms will continue to grow, fostering knowledge transfer and access to advanced technologies. Collaborations with companies like Boeing and Airbus are expected to enhance local capabilities significantly.

Sustainable Practices

As environmental concerns rise, there will be a shift towards sustainable practices within the aerospace sector. This includes developing eco-friendly materials for aircraft manufacturing and adopting energy-efficient production processes.

Karnataka's aerospace and defense sector has evolved dramatically since its inception in the early 1940s, establishing itself as a critical component of India's industrial landscape. With strong foundations laid by major players like HAL and ongoing government support, the future looks promising for this vital sector. By embracing technological advancements, fostering indigenous development, and attracting investments, Karnataka is poised to maintain its status as a global leader in aerospace and defense by 2025 and beyond.

SMALL BUT MIGHTY

Karnataka has established itself as a leading hub for the aerospace and defense industry in India, significantly driven by the contributions of Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs). These SMEs play a crucial role in the ecosystem, supporting larger public sector undertakings (PSUs) and private companies through specialised services and products.

Contribution of SMEs to Karnataka's Aerospace Industry

- Niche Subcontracting

Karnataka is home to over 2,000 SMEs that engage in niche subcontracting work for major PSUs like Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) and other large aerospace firms. These SMEs provide specialised components, assemblies, and services tailored to the specific needs of larger companies, enhancing the overall efficiency of the supply chain.

- Innovation and R&D

Many SMEs are involved in research and development activities, contributing innovative solutions that drive technological advancements in the aerospace sector. They often collaborate with research institutions and larger corporations to develop new materials, components, and processes. This collaborative environment fosters innovation, allowing Karnataka to remain competitive in the global aerospace market.

- Support for Maintenance, Repair, and Overhaul (MRO)

The MRO segment is critical for the sustainability of aircraft operations. SMEs in Karnataka are increasingly participating in this sector by providing repair services, spare parts, and maintenance solutions for both military and civilian aircraft. Their involvement helps reduce turnaround times and costs associated with aircraft maintenance, thus enhancing operational efficiency.

- Skilled Workforce Development

SMEs contribute significantly to workforce development by providing training and employment opportunities for engineers and technicians. They often collaborate with educational institutions to ensure that the workforce is equipped with the necessary skills required by the aerospace industry. This focus on skill development aligns with Karnataka's broader objectives of enhancing human capital in high-tech sectors.

- Economic Growth and Job Creation

The presence of a robust network of SMEs contributes to economic growth by creating jobs and boosting local economies. As these enterprises grow, they generate employment opportunities not only within their organisations but also across their supply chains. This job creation is vital for sustaining Karnataka's economic development.

Future Trends Driving Growth by 2025

As Karnataka moves toward 2025, several trends are expected to further enhance the role of SMEs in its aerospace industry:

- Increased Government Support

The Karnataka government has recognised the importance of SMEs in the aerospace sector and is implementing policies aimed at fostering their growth. Initiatives such as financial incentives, simplified regulatory processes, and dedicated aerospace parks will create a more conducive environment for SME operations.

- Focus on Indigenous Manufacturing

With a push towards self-reliance in defense manufacturing under initiatives like "Make in India," SMEs will play a crucial role in developing indigenous capabilities. This shift will encourage local firms to take on more significant projects previously handled by foreign entities.

- Expansion of Aerospace Hubs

The establishment of dedicated aerospace hubs across Karnataka will provide SMEs with access to advanced infrastructure and resources. These hubs will facilitate collaboration among various stakeholders, including startups, established companies, and research institutions.

- Technological Advancements

Emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence (AI), machine learning (ML), and automation will be increasingly adopted by SMEs to enhance production efficiency and product quality. This technological integration will enable them to compete more effectively on a global scale.

- Strengthening Global Partnerships

As global aerospace companies seek reliable partners for manufacturing and R&D activities, Karnataka's SMEs are well-positioned to form strategic alliances with international firms. These partnerships can lead to knowledge transfer, access to new markets, and enhanced competitiveness.

As the state continues to develop its aerospace capabilities through government support and strategic initiatives, the role of SMEs will become increasingly vital. By 2025, these enterprises are expected to play an even more significant role in shaping a robust aerospace ecosystem that positions Karnataka as a global leader in this dynamic sector.

A SPACE MARKETING INITIATIVE

Kannada Chaluvali
A JOURNEY THROUGH TIME

MANUFACTURING MISSION

Since its formation in 1956, Karnataka has become a vibrant manufacturing hub, contributing 81.1% to its industrial output. The state's diverse sectors—electronics, aerospace, textiles, and biotechnology—have driven its economic growth, with a GSDP of $268 billion in 2022-23. Karnataka aims for a $1 trillion economy by 2032, supported by government policies promoting innovation, skill development, and sustainability. Key developments include improved infrastructure, industrial zones, and initiatives to foster digital transformation and competitiveness in global markets.

Karnataka has undergone significant industrial transformation since its formation in 1956, evolving into a vibrant manufacturing hub with a diverse range of industries.

The manufacturing sector constitutes about 81.1% of the industrial output in Karnataka. As of 2022-23, the state's Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP) was approximately $268 billion, making it the third-largest economy in India. The government aims for an annual industrial growth rate of 15-16%, targeting a $1 trillion economy by 2032.

Early Years (1956 - 1970s)

Karnataka was established as Mysore State on November 1, 1956, following the States Reorganisation Act. The newly formed state inherited a modest industrial base primarily focused on traditional sectors such as agriculture and textiles. However, visionary leaders like Sir Mokshagundam Visvesvarayya played a crucial role in advocating for industrial development. His emphasis on infrastructure development laid the groundwork for future manufacturing initiatives.

Industrial Policy Initiatives (1980s - 1990s)

The 1980s marked a turning point for Karnataka's manufacturing landscape. The state government introduced several policies aimed at promoting industrialisation, including incentives for small-scale industries (SSIs) and the establishment of industrial estates. The Karnataka Industrial Policy of 1989 was particularly significant, as it aimed to attract investment in various sectors, including electronics, machinery, and chemicals. During this period, Bengaluru emerged as a technology hub, attracting investments from multinational corporations.

Diversification and Growth (2000s - 2024)

The turn of the millennium saw Karnataka diversifying its manufacturing base further. The establishment of dedicated sectors such as aerospace, biotechnology, and information technology significantly contributed to the state's economic growth. The government's proactive approach in creating Special Economic Zones (SEZs) facilitated investment in high-tech industries. By 2024, Karnataka's manufacturing sector had become a cornerstone of its economy, constituting about 81.1% of the state's industrial output. Key industries include:

Electronics: Home to major firms like Wipro, Dell, and 3M, Karnataka has become a leading center for electronics manufacturing.

Machinery: The state hosts numerous companies involved in producing industrial machinery and components.

Textiles: Karnataka is one of India's largest textile producers, with a focus on cotton and silk.

Aerospace: With HAL at the forefront, Karnataka has developed a robust aerospace sector that caters to both defense and civilian needs.

Significant Initiatives and Developments

Government Policies

The Karnataka government has consistently implemented policies to promote manufacturing. The recent Karnataka Manufacturing Policy 2022-2027 aims to enhance competitiveness by focusing on innovation, skill development, and sustainability.

Infrastructure Development

Investment in infrastructure has been pivotal for manufacturing growth. The establishment of industrial corridors and improved connectivity through roads, railways, and ports has facilitated easier access to markets.

Skill Development Programmes

To address the skills gap in the manufacturing sector, the government has launched various training programmes in collaboration with educational institutions and industry bodies. These initiatives aim to equip the workforce with relevant skills needed for modern manufacturing processes.

Focus on Sustainability

As global emphasis on sustainability increases, Karnataka's manufacturing sector is adapting by incorporating eco-friendly practices and technologies into production processes.

TRENDS DRIVING MANUFACTURING GROWTH BY 2025

Looking ahead to 2025, several trends are expected to shape Karnataka's manufacturing landscape:

Digital Transformation

The adoption of Industry 4.0 technologies such as IoT (Internet of Things), AI (Artificial Intelligence), and automation will revolutionise manufacturing processes. Companies will increasingly leverage data analytics for better decision-making and efficiency.

Green Manufacturing

Sustainability will be at the forefront of manufacturing strategies. Companies will invest in renewable energy sources and sustainable materials to reduce their carbon footprint.

Resilience in Supply Chains

The COVID-19 pandemic highlighted vulnerabilities in global supply chains. Manufacturers will focus on building more resilient supply chains through diversification and local sourcing strategies.

Investment in R&D

Increased investment in research and development will drive innovation within the sector. Collaborations between industry players and academic institutions will foster new product development and technological advancements.

Global Partnerships

Karnataka's manufacturing sector is likely to see more collaborations with international firms seeking reliable partners for production and R&D activities. These partnerships can enhance competitiveness and facilitate knowledge transfer.

NATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY (R.)

Balraj Urs Road, Shimoga - 577201

77 YEARS OF FRUITFUL SERVICE TO EDUCATION

The National Education Society, Shivamogga, was established in 1946 by freedom fighters of Shivamogga in response to the call given by Mahatma Gandhi to spread education to rural India. The Society was registered during 1948 under the Mysore Societies Registration Act. The first President of the Society was late H.S.Rudrappa who was then the President of Shivamogga District Board and later on became the Agriculture Minister of Karnataka. Among the 110 founder members of the Society were many distinguished personalities like Sri.Kadidal Manjappa who became the Revenue Minister and later the Chief Minister of Karnataka, Sri. H.Siddaiah who became the Revenue Minister and later the Speaker of Karnataka Legislative Assembly, Shri S.V. Krishnamurthy Rao the Member of Parliament and later became the Deputy Speaker of Loksabha,, Sri. Jayateerthachar who became Shivamogga Munciple President and Shri S.R. Nagappa Shetty, a true Gandhian, freedom fighter and the first M.L.A from Shivamogga. NES owes its existence and development to the lifetime efforts of Shri Nagappa Shetty. The tradition of selfless voluntary service to the cause of education initiated by the founders continued in building NES to the current level of excellence with the contributions from leading citizens of Shivamogga like, late Sri Rajagopal Girimaji, Late Sri Dinakar etc.

The first achievement of the Society was the establishment of National High school, Shivamogga., in June 1946. The Government of Mysore granted 4 acres of land in BalrajUrs Road, Shivamogga., to the school. Dr.Rajendraprasad, the First President of India, laid the foundation stone of the building in 1949. The school had the good fortune to be visited by the Philosopher Educationist Dr.S.Radhakrishnan, the then Vice-President of India. Revered Vinobaji stayed for a day in NES High School during his Padayatra in this district.

With this beginning and the blessings of such luminaries, NES has made a slow and steady progress over the years. It always responded to the needs of the time and established the institutions accordingly. The National Education Society as on day is managing 36 educational institutions. There are more than 17,000 students studying in various institutions of NES. NES has under its umbrella such diversified and prestigious institutions like Engineering College, Pharmacy College, Law College, CBSE School, ICSE residential school. In Engineering College complex alone there are around 4000 students studying U G and PG courses in Engineering, MBA, MCA etc. Engineering college is ranked one in 10 in the State and on all India ranking stands at 57th place. The student's placement record is also good even in recession periods. In Pharmacy College, consistently placement is almost 100%. NES is maintaining separate hostels for boys and girls wherein Boarding and Lodging facilities are provided at a very reasonable cost.

A JOURNEY THROUGH TIME

CULTIVATING PROSPERITY

Since its formation in 1956, Karnataka's agriculture has evolved from subsistence farming to a diversified, technology-driven sector, contributing significantly to both local and national economies, with promising future trends in sustainability and innovation.

The historical growth of agriculture in Karnataka since its formation in 1956 reflects a complex interplay of traditional practices, technological advancements, and policy initiatives. The state has evolved from a primarily subsistence farming economy to a more diversified agricultural landscape, contributing significantly to both the local and national economy.

Early Developments (1956-1970s)

Upon its formation in 1956, Karnataka inherited a relatively progressive agricultural framework from the erstwhile Mysore State. The state had established agricultural colleges and research institutions, which laid the groundwork for future agricultural development. The initial focus was on expanding cultivated areas and improving irrigation facilities. During the first Five-Year Plan (1951-1956), efforts were made to enhance productivity through the introduction of improved seed varieties and chemical fertilizers. The Second and Third Five-Year Plans (1961-1966) marked significant shifts as Karnataka began adopting high-yielding varieties (HYVs) of crops, particularly rice and wheat. This period saw the introduction of hybrid seeds and modern farming techniques, which led to increased agricultural output. The state became known for its high productivity in crops like maize and cotton, with notable advancements in sugarcane cultivation as well.

Technological Advancements and Green Revolution (1970s-1980s)

The Green Revolution in India during the late 1960s and 1970s had a profound impact on Karnataka's agriculture. The introduction of HYVs, along with government support for irrigation projects, significantly boosted food grain production. By the late 1970s, Karnataka was producing substantial quantities of cereals, pulses, and oilseeds. During this era, the government established several agricultural research stations and promoted cooperative societies to facilitate access to credit and inputs for farmers. This period also witnessed the rise of cash crops like coffee and silk, which became important economic drivers for the state.

Liberalisation and Diversification (1990s-2000s)

The economic liberalization of the 1990s brought about significant changes in agricultural policies. The focus shifted towards diversification, with an emphasis on horticulture and organic farming. Karnataka emerged as a leading producer of fruits like mangoes, grapes, and vegetables such as tomatoes and onions. The establishment of agro-based industries further strengthened the agricultural sector. Initiatives to promote agritech startups began to take shape during this period, fostering innovation in farming practices and supply chain management.

Recent Trends and Future Directions (2010s-Present)

In recent years, agriculture's contribution to Karnataka's Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP) has declined relative to other sectors like IT and manufacturing; however, it remains crucial for employment and food security. The state is recognised as a leading producer of coffee, silk, coarse cereals, and horticultural products.

The journey of agriculture in Karnataka since 1956 illustrates a remarkable transformation shaped by technological advancements, policy initiatives, and changing market dynamics. While challenges remain—such as climate change impacts and resource constraints—the future of agriculture in Karnataka looks promising with emerging trends focusing on sustainability, innovation, and enhanced market access poised to drive growth in the sector.

Key Trends Driving Future Growth

Technological Innovation: The rise of agritech startups is transforming traditional farming practices through precision agriculture, data analytics, and sustainable farming techniques. Technologies such as drones for crop monitoring and AI-driven solutions for pest management are gaining traction.

Sustainable Practices: There is a growing emphasis on sustainable agriculture practices to combat climate change impacts. Initiatives promoting organic farming and integrated pest management are becoming increasingly popular among farmers.

Irrigation Infrastructure: Continued investment in irrigation projects is critical for enhancing productivity in rainfed areas. Programs aimed at rejuvenating watersheds are expected to improve water availability for agriculture.

Market Access: Strengthening supply chains and improving market access through digital platforms can help farmers get better prices for their produce. E-commerce initiatives are connecting farmers directly with consumers.

Policy Support: The Karnataka government has introduced various schemes aimed at boosting agricultural productivity, including subsidies for fertilizers, seeds, and equipment. These policies are designed to support smallholder farmers who constitute a significant portion of the agricultural workforce.

Research and Development: Ongoing collaboration between universities, research institutions, and agricultural extension services is essential for developing new crop varieties that are resilient to pests and climate variability.

CHARGING AHEAD

Karnataka is emerging as a leader in electric mobility, with rapid EV growth, government incentives, infrastructure expansion, and ambitious policies aimed at sustainable transportation and innovation by 2025.

Electric mobility is rapidly emerging as a pivotal sector in Karnataka, reflecting the global shift towards sustainable energy solutions. The state government is actively promoting the production of electric vehicles (EVs) and their components, aiming to create a robust ecosystem for electric mobility solutions. With ambitious policies and strategic investments, Karnataka is positioning itself as a leader in the EV landscape.

Karnataka has made significant strides in the electric mobility sector. As of early 2024, the state ranks third in India for EV registrations, boasting approximately 3.31 lakh registered electric vehicles and over 5,765 charging stations, the highest in the country.

The growth trajectory of EV registrations has been impressive, with a 1,275% increase from 2020-2021 to 2023-2024.

This surge can be attributed to several factors, including government incentives, increased awareness of environmental issues, and advancements in EV technology.

Government Initiatives

The Karnataka government has introduced a revised Electric Vehicle Policy for 2023-2028, aiming to attract investments of Rs 50,000 crore and create one lakh job opportunities.

Key provisions of this policy include:

Incentives: Exemptions from road taxes for electric vehicles priced under Rs 25 lakh and capital subsidies for testing and manufacturing facilities.

Infrastructure Development: Plans to establish model EV cities in regions like Kalaburagi and Mysuru, along with expanding charging infrastructure along major highways.

Investment in R&D: Support for research and development initiatives to foster innovation within the EV sector.

These initiatives are designed to create a conducive environment for both manufacturers and consumers, thereby accelerating EV adoption across the state.

Karnataka stands at the forefront of India's electric mobility revolution, with a comprehensive strategy that integrates infrastructure development, technological advancement, and policy support. The trends shaping this sector indicate a promising future as the state aims to become a hub for electric vehicle manufacturing and adoption by 2025. With sustained efforts from both the government and private sectors, Karnataka is well-positioned to lead India's transition towards sustainable transportation solutions.

Trends Shaping Growth by 2025

Several trends are expected to influence the growth of electric mobility in Karnataka by 2025:

■ Increased Investment in Infrastructure

The expansion of charging infrastructure is critical for supporting the growing number of electric vehicles. The government plans to establish thousands of new charging stations through public-private partnerships, making it easier for consumers to transition to electric mobility. Improved accessibility will likely encourage more people to consider purchasing EVs.

■ Technological Advancements

Advancements in battery technology, including improved energy density and faster charging capabilities, will enhance the appeal of electric vehicles. Innovations such as solid-state batteries and integrated vehicle-to-grid (V2G) technologies are expected to gain traction, making EVs more efficient and user-friendly.

■ Sustainability Focus

As environmental concerns continue to rise, there will be an increasing demand for sustainable transportation solutions. The government's commitment to reducing carbon emissions through electric mobility aligns with global sustainability goals, attracting environmentally conscious consumers and businesses.

■ Policy Support

Continued government support through favorable policies will be crucial. The proposed incentives for manufacturers and consumers will stimulate growth within the sector. Furthermore, initiatives aimed at skill development for the workforce will ensure that there is adequate talent available to meet industry demands.

■ Public Transport Electrification

Karnataka's efforts to electrify public transport systems will significantly impact overall EV adoption rates. The introduction of electric buses into public transportation fleets will not only reduce emissions but also demonstrate the viability of EVs to a broader audience.

■ Growing Consumer Awareness

As awareness regarding climate change and air pollution increases, consumers are becoming more inclined towards sustainable options like electric vehicles. Educational campaigns highlighting the benefits of EVs—such as lower operating costs and reduced environmental impact—will further drive consumer interest.
